Kosygin Pledges Aid For Hanoi Defence

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Kosygin, just before leaving for Moscow, announced in Hanoi that agreement was reached on measures to strengthen North Viet Nam's defence potential, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Johnson Wins Support Of Both Parties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem.—Ark.), chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and "a dominant majority" of Senate Republicans have supported President Johnson's course.

CHINA HOT, RUSSIA COOL

TOKYO (UPI)—China warned the United States today that the Johnson administration will not be able to control "the time, place and scale of the war" in South Viet Nam if it expands the war. "We mean what we say," the Peking regime warned.

The Soviet Union, however, took a much more conciliatory line, saying early today that it was in favor of "the establishment of normal relations" with the United States.

The Soviet statement, contained in an editorial in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, came hours after U.S. ambassador Foy D. Kohler complained that there was inadequate protection of the U.S. Embassy by Russian police during student demonstrations.

The Soviet leaders are in favor of the "establishment of normal relations with the U.S. and their improvement," Pravda said.

The Peking statement, an editorial in the official Peking People's Daily newspaper, was monitored in a broadcast which said:

"How far the Johnson administration will go on the road of expanding the war in Indo-China is a question which the administration can decide for itself.

"But once U.S. imperialism embarks on this road of adventure, it would be impossible for it, as a belligerent, to control and decide at will the time, place and scale of the war."

China, which Tuesday warned that its armed forces were waiting in "battle array" to counter any United States invasion of North Viet Nam, said today Peking and the "whole socialist camp" would consider an invasion of North Viet Nam as an invasion on China itself.

"If U.S. imperialism is bent on spreading the war flames and imposing war on us, then we shall have no alternative but to go along with it to the very end."

The Chinese warned that the "whole of Asia would be aflame with the revolutionary fire in which you (the United States) will be so burnt to death that not even your ashes would be traceable."

If Phony Letter Probed

Author Likely Witness

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday if the Dorion inquiry decides to investigate the phony Premier Bennett letter in connection with the Stonehill immigration case he expects the true author to be called to testify.

The attorney-general disclosed that he received a letter from Prime Minister Pearson in which there appeared to be "no reservations" about terms of reference of the Dorion inquiry being wide enough to encompass the phony letter.

NO INDICATION

In the letter Mr. Pearson was "both cordial and correct," said Mr. Bonner, but it gave no indication that the prime minister had communicated with the commission.

Mr. Bonner said he didn't know what prompted lawyers at Tuesday's hearings in Ottawa to request the Dorion commission to call witnesses in connection with the case of millionaire promoter Harry Stonehill, who was refused landed immigrant status in Canada.

OTHER WITNESSES

The possible witnesses named in Ottawa news reports were Hal Dornan, policy assistant to the prime minister, Vancouver publicist Al Williamson, former immigration aide Raymond Denis and Mr. Stonehill.

Mr. Bonner last week announced a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be the premier's was completely phony and added that RCMP had learned the identity of the true author in Vancouver. He did not identify the author.

Mr. Pearson has given no indication of what further action the federal government plans, said Mr. Bonner.

"I imagine, however, that if the Dorion commission gets into this it will seek to hear the author of the letter," he said.

Mr. Bonner said he considered the latest developments meant in effect that the phony letter was already being considered by the Dorion inquiry.

Premier Bennett also disclosed yesterday that he received a telegram from the prime minister in reply to his phone calls last week. He refused to divulge what the contents of the wire were.

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a second aide to Prime Minister Pearson being called before the Dorion inquiry was raised Tuesday, 20th day of the commission's hearings.

Yves Fortier, counsel for Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, proposed Hal Dornan, Mr. Pearson's speech - writer, and other principals in the Harry Stonehill immigration case be summoned as witnesses.

The request, on which Chief Justice Frederic Dorion reserved decision, came soon after Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, former parliamentary secretary to Mr. Pearson, completed his testimony.

Though Mr. Pearson has said Mr. Rouleau resigned Nov. 24 as his parliamentary secretary, Mr. Rouleau insisted twice

'It May Take Bulldozer, But B.C. Will Get Bank'

TORONTO (CP)—B.C. Highways Minister Philip Gaglardi said Tuesday after speaking to the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, that the province has not given up plans for its own bank.

"We never abandon any good plan. If they stop us one way, we'll get it by another."

In his speech, Mr. Gaglardi attacked Canadian senators for blocking B.C.'s bid for a bank.

"Some of those moss-backed senators up there don't know anything. But don't you worry. We'll get it if we have to take a bulldozer to get it going."

Asians Lead Massive Protests

From CP, Reuters

Hundreds of Asian university students staged an angry demonstration in front of the United States Embassy in Moscow Wednesday breaking at least 140 windows and defacing the nine-storey structure with ink.

In Peking the New China news agency said 2,250,000 Chinese turned out in huge demonstrations against the U.S. in Peking, Shanghai, Canton and Nanking.

The Moscow demonstration, carefully organized and led by agitators who barked out directions to the students through loudspeakers, was in protest against American air strikes on North Vietnamese military installations.

Moscow police held a U.S.

Among those wounded Tuesday was the son of the deputy commander of the U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

As South Vietnamese troops and the Communist Viet Cong clashed near Da Nang, troops at the base began throwing up sandbags around a newly installed battery of U.S. Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

FEAR ONSLAUGHT

Authorities feared a Viet Cong onslaught on Da Nang, cornerstone of U.S. air operations against Communist strongholds in Laos and North Viet Nam. The base is 80 miles south of the North Vietnamese border and 380 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese government troops made a helicopter attack on one Viet Cong force near the base and caught another group of about 200 out in the open. No detailed results were available.

'STRIKE HARD'

Communist guerrillas pressed the attack throughout the country in a bloody counter-thrust to U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam. A Hanoi broadcast heard in Tokyo urged the Viet Cong to "strike hard, very hard at the enemy on all battlefields."

Nanaimo Sewer Job

Cave-In Kills Worker

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — A 30-year-old Nanaimo district man died Tuesday afternoon not far from his home when a 15-foot section of a seven-foot-deep sewer trench caved in.

Leroy Morgan of Departure Bay Road, the father of two children, was injured fatally when buried for several minutes while working between Highland Boulevard and Marlborough Crescent in the upper Departure Bay area.

He was helping pipelayer Frank Bohati, 615 Sterling, when foreman Pat Fagan noticed the walls were giving way and yelled a warning.

Mr. Bohati jumped clear, but Mr. Morgan, co-workers said, went the wrong way.

The others soon uncovered Mr. Morgan's head.

An Island Ambulance arrived within minutes, and Dr. John Dixon and an ambulance attendant administered oxygen from a first-aid kit the Ledingham Construction Co. had on hand. They also tried mouth - to - mouth resuscitation before taking Mr. Morgan to Nanaimo hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The company has about half a dozen crews working in the area under a $445,000 sewerage project bylaw approved by voters last spring.

Coroner Russell Inkster said an inquest will open Thursday.

Tuesday he had asked the prime minister to be relieved of his duties only during the period of the inquiry.

Ross Drouin, Conservative party counsel, said he wants to recall to the witness box Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, for questioning in the Stonehill case.

American millionaire Stonehill, expelled from Canada and facing court charges in the U.S., has said he had a hotel meeting last summer in Ottawa with Denis, Al Williamson, Vancouver public relations man, and Dornan, former Vancouver newspaper man, concerning his own case.

Propriety

Mr. Pearson said last week Dornan acted with "perfect propriety" in introducing Denis to Stonehill and Williamson.

The Dorion inquiry is investigating allegations by Mr. Lamontagne that he has offered a $20,000 bribe by Denis July 14 and subjected to Liberal political pressure to agree to bail for Lucien Rivard, wanted in the U.S. on narcotics conspiracy charges. Denis has denied he made any bribe offer.

Mr. Fortier maintained Denis should be recalled so he could be asked about published reports he had said "how much is in it for me, how much is in it for us?" in the Stonehill case.

Mr. Fortier said the latter quotation referred to the Liberal campaign fund.

He said the commission could determine whether there was a pattern in the way Denis carried out his duties as executive assistant to Mr. Tremblay.

"It is important to know whether Denis was in the habit of doing this," Mr. Fortier added.

The commission owed it to Denis to throw light on the published reports of what he had allegedly said in the Stonehill case.

Cash Quoted?

Mr. Drouin said Stonehill in a Sunday night television program—the CBC's This Hour Has Seven Days—had spoken of $25,000 to $50,000 and said he had seen Senator Gelinas "to make the arrangements as they are commonly called."

Liberal Senator Louis P. Gelinas, treasurer of the Liberal party in Quebec, has testified before the inquiry that he doesn't know Denis.

(A transcript of the CBC interview contains no mention by Mr. Stonehill of any amount of money in the context of his reference to Senator Gelinas.

'In Fairness'

(The transcript shows that when the interviewer asked him if he had met Senator Gelinas, Mr. Stonehill replied:

("Er . . . yes, I met him. Through a mutual friend on another occasion, and I must say that in fairness to Senator Gelinas he never inferred anything improper. I merely explained to him that I wanted to become a resident of Canada, and I asked if there was anything that he could do on my behalf, to hasten action on this. And Mr. Gelinas said that he would look into the matter, and to the best of my knowledge, he's never—I don't know what happened about it. He's never approached me, he's never called me, he never said anything.")

Self-styled Liberal organizer Guy Masson has testified he tried to make an appointment with Senator Gelinas to tell him $60,000 was available for the Liberal campaign fund if Rivard's extradition to the U.S. was blocked.

The senator said Masson was a "perfect stranger" to him.

RCMP counsel Norman Mathews, commission counsel Andre Desjardins, Francois Chapados, counsel for Masson, Jules Deschenes, federal government counsel, and Guy Guerin, counsel for Denis, all opposed introduction of the Stonehill case.

Out of Sight

Mr. Mathews said the commission would get so far away from the inquiry that sight would be lost "of what it's all about."

Mr. Chapados said the inquiry would go beyond its terms of reference if every "Tom, Dick and Harry" in the Stonehill case were called as witnesses.

Mr. Deschenes said to go into the Stonehill affair would require "a feat of intellectual gymnastics."

Chief Justice Dorion reserved decision.

Admissible

He cited a recent judgment that it is admissible evidence to examine actions which show a system or particular intention on the part of an accused.

Mr. Drouin said his only purpose in asking that Denis be recalled to testify in the Stonehill case is to test Denis' credibility in the Rivard case.

He said that in the Stonehill case "certain requests" were made for "monetary contributions, to speak politely."

Mr. Fortier said Denis had sworn before the inquiry he was shocked when Masson had mentioned the Liberal campaign fund.

But now there were contrary reports that the Liberal campaign fund was a subject close to Denis' heart.

If Denis had told Stonehill to go to Gelinas, it would prove a "system" was in existence, Mr. Fortier said.

Mr. Guerin said a Time magazine article on Denis' connection with the Stonehill case is contempt of court. He said he might make a statement before the Quebec Superior Court concerning Williamson.

Paul Jolin, counsel for the New Democratic Party, said Denis is undergoing trial by newspaper in the Stonehill case and should be allowed to give his version before the Dorion inquiry.

Other Methods

Mr. Desjardins said Denis could have recourse to other procedures.

(Outside the commission, informed sources said the RCMP has not investigated Denis' alleged connection with the Stonehill case).

In completing his testimony begun Jan. 29 in Montreal, Mr. Rouleau said he wrote a letter to the national parole board July 17 on behalf of convict Bob Tremblay on the letterhead of Mr. Pearson's office.

Filed Copy

He had filed a copy of this letter, written after Rivard saw Mr. Rouleau in Ottawa June 17 on Tremblay's behalf. On it was printed at the top "office of the prime minister." The letter was signed by Mr. Rouleau as MP and parliamentary secretary to the prime minister.

Tremblay is serving 20 years for attempted murder—by beating with lead pipes—in a Vancouver narcotics case.

Mr. Rouleau said Rivard told him he would employ and "rehabilitate" Tremblay if the latter were paroled.

Letterhead

The MP, chairman of the Liberal parliamentary caucus, said he had always used the prime minister's office stationery until September or October. At that time, there had been a directive that parliamentary secretaries use the letterheads of cabinet ministers only when writing on behalf of the ministers.

Asked what his duties were as parliamentary secretary, Mr. Rouleau said he received persons Mr. Pearson didn't have time to see and examined files sent to him by the prime minister.

He said he saw Mr. Pearson "nearly every day" but that he had never told him about his connection with the Rivard affair until Nov. 24.

Aware of Post

Mr. Rouleau said Raymond Daoust, a lawyer for Rivard and Joseph (Bananas) Bonanno, a Mafia boss who was expelled from Canada July 30 and who has since disappeared, knew he was parliamentary secretary to Mr. Pearson and that he had access to various government departments.

He testified he arranged a July 15 meeting between Mr. Daoust and Denis on the Bonanno case.

New Democrat counsel Jolin quoted a July 9 letter from Mr. Daoust to Mr. Rouleau saying it was a "malicious rumor" that Bonanno was a member of the Mafia.

Drug Link

Mr. Jolin asked whether Mr. Rouleau was aware, as a lawyer and MP, "certain organizations" were concerned with the narcotics traffic.

Mr. Rouleau said he was aware of this but that there was nothing to make him believe that Rivard might be a member of such an organization.

Mr. Drouin said as parliamentary secretary to Mr. Pearson, Mr. Rouleau perhaps had more influence than many cabinet ministers.

He said he wanted to show the pressure Mr. Rouleau could exert simply by talking on the telephone about bail for Rivard—"the pressure that a single one of his words could create."

Mr. Drouin was referring to Mr. Rouleau's call to Mr. Lamontagne Aug. 11 concerning the Rivard affair.

Five Lawyers

Mr. Rouleau at first said he approached Guy Lord and Andre Letendre, aides to Justice Minister Favreau, about the possibility of bail for Rivard.

He denied this in later testimony and said he had only been seeking information about the nature of the charges against Rivard.

At the request of government counsel and Mr. Fortier, five Montreal lawyers — Roland Blais, Jean Salois, Claude Danis, Leo-Rene Maranda and Raymond Bernier — will be called to testify Thursday about rumors they allegedly heard concerning a bribe offer to Mr. Lamontagne.

King Asks New Laws For Voting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said Tuesday he had urged President Johnson and top federal officials to ask Congress for new civil rights legislation this year involving voting rights.

King told newsmen at a White House news conference that Johnson assured him during a 15-minute meeting of the administration's vigorous support for the "broadest possible registration of voters throughout the country."

The Negro integration leader conferred with the president in an unexpected meeting. He had sought such a conference last week in the aftermath of the racial outbreaks in Selma, Ala. King spearheaded the attempt to get Selma negroes registered.

reporter for questioning for nearly seven hours.

The reporter, 27-year-old Adam Clymer of the Baltimore Sun, was released late Tuesday night after being investigated "for assaulting an officer," U.S. Sources said.

Clymer was injured in the demonstration.

POLICE TACTICS

At least 100 Moscow policemen formed cordons to keep the students, numbering between 500 and 1,000, from getting too close to the embassy. In the early stages they allowed students to stick dozens of banners and placards on the iron fence separating the embassy property from the sidewalk. These carried such slogans as "To hell with American imperialism," and "Down with the American aggressors."

Later, however, police cleared the sidewalk of demonstrators, in many cases using physical force.

But they made no attempt to stop the throwing of stones, ink bottles and chunks of ice by demonstrators massed on the street.

Nobody in the embassy was hurt.

Meanwhile, there was speculation in Moscow diplomatic circles that the Soviet government had committed a major blunder by sending Premier Alexei Kosygin to North Viet Nam at this time.

Observers said the Soviets apparently had fallen into a trap concocted by either the North Vietnamese or China or both. They surmised that the Communist strike in South Viet Nam which triggered the American raid on the north was timed to coincide with Kosygin's visit.

This places the Kremlin in the position of either rendering decisive aid to the North Vietnamese or appearing to desert a fraternal Communist country in its time of need.

The massive anti-American demonstrations in China came as the Communist government warned it waits "in battle array" for any U.S. attempt to extend the military conflict in Southeast Asia.

The official New China news agency reported 2,250,000 persons turned out for huge, traffic-snarling street demonstrations in Peking, Shanghai, Canton and Nanking against U.S. air attacks in North Viet Nam last week.

ton, was wounded in heavy fighting in which the Viet Cong downed four helicopters.

The young officer was with a task force lifted by helicopter Tuesday to an area near Binh Gia. The fighting continued into Wednesday morning with a mortar barrage from the Viet Cong.

NINE KILLED

The government forces lost nine dead and 38 wounded as they hacked through the foliage toward the Viet Cong tree-line positions.

Another battle broke out in Vinh Binh province, in the Mekong River Delta south of Saigon, and there was heavy fighting in Binh Dinh province, 260 miles northeast of Saigon. The government was reported to have suffered heavy losses in the Binh Dinh engagement.

To the north, a battery of 36 U.S. Hawk anti-aircraft missiles braced for action to help tighten frontier defences, while Saigon cautiously went about its daily routine.

AS PRECAUTION

The Hawks, fitted to home in on aerial intruders, were set up at the Da Nang air base as a precaution against possible Communist retaliation for the retaliatory U.S.-South Vietnamese raids Sunday and Monday on North Viet Nam.

Nine South Vietnamese soldiers and a U.S. helicopter crew member were killed and three helicopters were shot down in assaults on Viet Cong positions near Binh Gia, a Roman Catholic settlement 40 miles east of Saigon. The roll of American combat dead since December, 1961, rose to 266. Eighteen of the guerrillas were reported slain.

HEAVY FIGHTING

Heavy fighting with undetermined results was reported near Pleiku, 230 miles north of Saigon, where a Viet Cong attack on U.S. installations Saturday prompted President Johnson's administration to order the air strikes at North Vietnamese targets.

The guerrillas have North Viet Nam's backing.

Qualified sources at Da Nang, on the South China Sea 80 miles south of the North Vietnamese border, said the retaliatory phase has at least temporarily ended.

EXODUS BEGINS

The Washington-ordered exodus of 1,819 American women and children from South Viet Nam began in Saigon and Da Nang.

A funeral ceremony was held at the Saigon Airport for nine Americans, including the eight killed Sunday at Pleiku.

But the airport also was a scene of jubilation as South Vietnamese fliers celebrated their 24-bomber strike Monday at three North Vietnamese frontier points. Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, the air force commander who led the raid, was decorated with one of South Viet Nam's highest medals.

IN FEW DAYS

Eggs Unlikely to Contain Poison from Pesticides

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband tells me I have been reading too much Rachel Carson lately but we have regularly sprayed fruit trees in our garden with a pesticide containing malathion. We have two pet chickens that are permitted to roam the garden. They eat bugs, roots and sometimes grass around the trees. Is it possible for the spray to be washed off the trees onto things consumed by the birds, and passed on into the eggs?

If I am being too cautious, I should appreciate knowing it as the eggs are piling up and so is my husband's temper. — N.G.S.

Miss Carson called attention to a matter which deserves (and is getting) attention. The question of what long-term effects may result from continued use of new chemicals.

She got listeners by overstating the case. Perhaps she was justified in that sense. But she also frightened a lot of people who thought that "what might happen" is the same as "what is happening." Your chickens are evidently healthy, so eat the eggs. Wash fruit from your trees but that's routine anyway. Stop worrying about the eggs, and get your husband's temper back to normal.

Dear Dr. Molner: When a man has three dark hair spots in his head but is otherwise blond, could he have had two fathers? This is an important question for me.—M.L.S.

No. It is physiologically impossible. Once an ovum has been fertilized it rejects any further sperm. True, it can develop twins, but that is a different matter. A seed planted in the ground can sprout only once even though some plants may have more than one stalk. There's your answer. You can stop worrying now.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference in procedure in enlarging the pupil of the eye and dilating it? Does the enlarging mean cutting of the iris? I know dilating is done with drops.—F.D.

Dilating and enlarging mean the same thing. No, cutting of the iris would not be involved. The pupil automatically dilates or becomes smaller to suit the amount of light. Dilation with drugs (or "drops") is done by ophthalmologists so they can see into the eye better. That's also why patients wear dark glasses, or at that rate avoid bright light, for a little while afterward until the drug has worn off and the pupil can close up to protect against excessive brightness.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do children get their blood types from the father or from the mother? —J.C.

Parenthood is a co-operative undertaking. If both parents happen to be Type O, the children will be Type O. But in any other combination of Types O, A, B or AB, the children may have any of two or more types. If one parent is Type A and the other Type B, the children can be of any possible blood type.

Strange Silence

IT IS AN ODD commentary on present-day Canada to reflect that its public opinion makers — under which broad heading must fall newspaper editors and political columnists, CBC and private radio and television commentators on national affairs, the clergy, and leading national, provincial and municipal personalities—seem far more concerned with what is to happen to Mr. Diefenbaker than what is now happening to the Liberal administration of this country.

For many weeks now our leading journals, our national press news services and our political seers and pundits have all headlined, underlined and overwritten about the problems facing the leader of this nation's major opposition party while at the same time staying strangely silent on those besetting the prime minister.

Though it may well flatter Mr. Diefenbaker to find himself thus judged more newsworthy than Mr. Pearson and his scandal-prone government, it is hardly a compliment to either the intelligence of the average Canadian or the integrity of those whose business it is to comment on matters of national importance.

Can it be that it is really considered more important to the people of this country that the Conservative Party solve its leadership problems than for the Liberal government to clean house? Can it be that Canadians believe that nothing is really wrong in Ottawa? Can it be that our political observers are so completely blinded by the glittering personality of John Diefenbaker that they are unable to see what is happening under their very noses?

If this is not so, then why this conspiracy of silence? This reluctance to voice alarm over matters which normally would have brought down any government?

Can it be that in their hearts and minds, these men who day by day interpret for us the affairs of state, who pass judgment on those in office and out with fine impartiality, these men who aspire to be the foe of evil and the friend of good, who courageously subordinate their personal preferences to public weal, these men who set themselves up as the public's conscience, have already completely and utterly rejected the Pearson government and are thus solely interested today in weighing the qualities of the nation's next prime minister?

Or can it be they believe that if they pretend not to see anything wrong with Ottawa nothing wrong really exists?

Little Atlas

The latter it is in fact who should be the central image. It is he who like Atlas holding up the world sustains above him the vast paraphernalia of governance on all levels.

He keeps the ships at sea, the schools in being, puts the black top on highways, underwrites the police at work, pays for the pension schemes, provides the aid for agriculture, social welfare, international expense, and a host of other things, and sustains every budget in the nation.

He is the most important man in the country, even if governments ignore this and pretend to be handing out largesse from some mythical money store of their own.

And at each of the levels he buttresses governments seek always for themselves a bigger share of his tax dollar. None can ever get enough.

An instance of this is the complaint voiced in the provincial budget speech that the federal treasury takes more than its due share of this little man's dollar in B.C. The example cited, however, is a poor one.

It is that over the 23-year period from 1940 to 1963 federal revenue from personal and corporation increased 12 times while provincial revenues from this source increased only five and a half times.

From 1940 on Canada fought an active and costly war and ever since has been embroiled in the defence outlay of the cold war, still adding a billion dollars a year and more to the need for national revenues. As with the tiny Atlas in the corner the provincial argument ignores a fundamental fact.

The taxpayer it is who can but watch each and every level of government seeking to grab more of his basic dollar. The situation would be amusing were it not for one thing; the total burden of taxation, no matter how divided, bears heavily on his dollar.

Why Not Try It?

VICTORIA ALDERMEN are turning once again in committee to the question of encouraging more citizens to use their ballots in the annual elections. The discussion has been prompted on this occasion by a letter suggesting that the city should have at least six polling stations instead of one.

Proposals of such nature are nothing new. They are forthcoming as regularly and more frequently than the elections themselves. But despite usual disappointment at the size of the turnout at the polls, city hall has repeatedly rejected the idea of enabling electors to mark their ballots in their own neighborhoods, as they do in the provincial and federal voting and as, for another instance, do their counterparts in Saanich.

Several arguments are put forward against abandonment of the single-station system.

One is that the city has a radial public transportation service, all the buses running to the downtown area and thus everyone supposedly having easiest access to the centrally-located polling place. With schools that could be used as voting stations often as close as the nearest bus stop in residential districts, though, this is far from universally true, and the increased fare now is an additional deterrent.

A second is that the job of the returning officer's staff would be more complicated and the counting of votes slower. If more citizens could be induced to use their franchise, however, this would seem a small price to pay for the better expression of the will of the electorate.

And a third is that experience elsewhere in the province indicates multiple subdivisions do not generally outdraw a single station. But there are too many varying circumstances, surely, to be certain that this would be the case locally.

Conjecture is hardly a sound base for resisting a change in this respect. Why not, at least, give the alternative system a fair trial and see the results?

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

UNLIKE a rose, which as the poet says would be just the same if called something different, a man's name might change his image. His first name, that is.

If it becomes formalized into proper style as he gets older it may shed something of the intimacy of his early days. To be Dickie as a boy and become Richard when an adult, for instance, suggests a transformation a flower never could affect.

I was set on this path of rumination when reading about a hockey player until recently well on the way to record breaking. It wasn't his boast that he'd count more than 50 goals this season but of the scribes so fond of keeping the tab. As it happens the odds are mounting against him, but goals are not germane to us this morn.

His name is, however. Bobby Hull, they call him.

Now Bobby summons up a vision, scarcely in this case of a small boy since he's an NHL player but still one of youth. And he'll always be Bobby, I presume, long after he's become old, when his career is recalled.

Unless he takes up some other career, politics perhaps, when his playing days are done. Even then the Bobby might stick. One hockey-politico carries "Red" with him into the halls of Parliament.

The Red in this instance is a nickname, but so in a sense are youthful terms when these cling to them indefinitely.

It is interesting to note where and where not a given name has been transformed.

I suppose Mr. Diefenbaker's mother might have called him Johnnie when he was a lad but no one ever does so nowadays. John it is and the name never gets a tail added to it, even as colloquial reference.

Nor is Mr. Thompson like Mr. Hull; he is invariably Robert and seldom, as is Mr. Strachan, labelled Bob. The latter has escaped the Bobby, however, which I fancy would make him cringe. But one big-time political figure thrives on Tommy, Mr. Douglas. Nor can this be put down to youth, for he's been an adult of considerable weight for a long time.

Mr. Pearson gets Mike, although not so often now. Lester has taken on the familiar ring, as with the first name of his most noted adversary. Mr. Green was never Howie, nor does Mr. Harkness become Dougie. And Mr. Pickersgill is Jack, not Jackie.

Jack was the familiar of the late U.S. president, his wife being alloted the Jackie, but here the fondness for initials across the line saved the day. He was JFK, just as Mr. Johnson is LBJ. Lyndon, however, isn't so free on the tongue.

Our own Mr. Bennett isn't very often Cec, but occasionally, combining his initials into a word, Wac. Nobody, fortunately, refers to him as Wacky. Which he is far from, anyway, no matter what else may be said pro or con.

Churchill of course was Winnie, and a well-known party colleague, Mr. Butler, is commonly Rab. But Mr. Chamberlain was never Nevy.

Some first names don't lend themselves to diminutive or boyish reference, and of those that do a lot depends on the public image. John may suit admirably, but so somehow does Tommy.

Keeping in Shape for Politics

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IF ever you saw a man on the bench and waiting to get back into the game, it's George Harris Hees, 54, the flamboyant former Toronto Argo lineback and Conservative trade minister now heading the Canadian and Montreal Stock Exchanges.

As president of the stock exchanges, he attend no political rallies, makes no political speeches — well, not exactly political speeches.

He has rented a house in Montreal, but keeps his Toronto apartment, and has put his great personal charm and free-wheeling vigor into the investment business, looking for all the world like a man comfortably at home in what, at first glance, might seem a life career.

But it only looks that way.

Talked to him at Montreal the other day, and it quickly became apparent that his stock exchanges presidency, although strictly, formally and officially non-political, is precisely the place to keep in training for a return to what, with obvious relish, he refers to as "The Great Game" of politics.

The presidency is almost 100 per cent a public relations post.

Of course, there are administrative responsibilities which keep him desk-bound at Montreal.

But never for long.

Most of the time he's doing the thing he likes and does best —meeting people.

All kinds of people: business groups, service clubs, student organizations, women's clubs—in fact, just about any association, provided it is on this side of the international boundary and goes through the necessary formality of extending him an invitation to speak.

His speeches come in equally fluent English and French, and more recently increasingly about the joys of national public service.

To the suggestion that all this public exposure on the speaking platform is just the ticket for an old political athlete keeping in training for a return to campaign competition, he beams an amiable, "You can never tell, eh keed!"

And, he confesses, his interest in national politics hasn't diminished in the slightest.

"There's nothing so important," he says, "nothing so exciting and so rewarding in the sense of self-fulfilment as public service and the knowledge that you are participating in the direction of the affairs of your country at the very source of power which, of course, is Parliament."

His terms as Conservative transport and then trade minister he classes along with his days as a cadet at Royal Military College as "the greatest years of my life."

At 54 he is still young, in the way national politicians calculate age, and talking to him you get the message, loud and clear, that he is looking forward confidently to more "greatest years."

Oddly, he has no family or lifelong tradition as a Conservative, for one who rose so high and became so prominent in the party.

He thought of politics first when he was overseas (where he had a brilliant war record) discovering that while he was one of the fortunate few whose family enjoyed ample money, there were others less lucky who had come through some pretty rough times in the Great Depression of the 30s.

Perhaps naively, he thought that in national politics he might do something about it.

His brother-in-law, an ardent Liberal, sent him to Ottawa, when he returned home wounded, to see Prime Minister King's finance minister, J. L. Ilsley, and Defence Minister J. L. Ralston.

"Ralston told me that I had a real contribution to make, whatever party I joined," he relates.

"It might have been the Liberals, except at that time, the government, fighting against inevitable conscription, was telling the country that the troops overseas had all the reinforcements required—and I knew how wrong that was, how men were going back into battle exhausted and dying because of lack of support, due entirely to the government manpower policy."

So he became a Conservative, fought in the North Grey by-election where conscription was the issue and the government defeated, and found his life's purpose and career.

Now as a stock exchange president, he was "only taking time out—for when I join a team it's for keeps and I go all the way."

Food and People

Scientists predict that a population explosion will bring unheard-of misery to the people of the world in about 15 years unless drastic measures are taken in the meantime to produce more food and slow down the increase of population.

The main responsibility for action in this regard lies with the people of the more affluent countries and they, for the most part, are dangerously unaware of the want in have-not lands and the population pressures which accompany it.

It is true that many excellent schemes, both national and international, have been initiated for expanding food production and training agriculturalists, and important birth control studies are being carried out by many agencies, but action on a gigantic scale is required, and this can only come about when the average citizen in countries like Canada and the United States has been made aware of the terrible danger that threatens us all. It is the duty of those who know to broadcast the facts until all are aroused.

Health Plan

Your correspondent Dr. N. Mellor has accused me of showing "precious little insight and imagination" in my reply to Dr. Thomas.

My views on medicare are based on:

(1) Personal experience. In 1955-1956 I stayed in the United Kingdom for some six months and talked to at least 25 doctors. In spite of crowded waiting-rooms I did not find one doctor who favored a deterrent fee on the premise that such a fee would keep really sick people away from their offices. Nor did I find one single doctor who denied, that from the point of view of the health of the nation, the National Health Act was a great asset.

(2) The findings of the British Royal Commission composed of doctors and selected by a Conservative government — not Labor—to study the operation of the National Health Services during the first 10 years of operation. This commission endorsed the plan and recommended few changes.

(3) The findings of the Hall Royal Commission selected and appointed by a Conservative government — not NDP. This commission consisted of able and distinguished Canadians from all walks of life. This commission travelled the length and breadth of Canada, interviewed countless groups and persons including medical associations, and then endorsed unanimously a comprehensive national plan. Surely Dr. Mellor does not really believe that the members of this commission were all starry-eyed socialists with little knowledge of their subject.

(4) The experience of Saskatchewan where the health plan is operating efficiently.

Dr. Mellor speaks of the doctors who are leaving Britain but he does not mention the thousands who stayed and worked loyally to make the National Health Act the success it is in spite of the views of Dr. Mellor.

Doctors and in fact other professions have always left Britain to seek a new life in the Commonwealth and Empire. However I believe the medical schools in Britain are full to overflowing

Council Duty

Despite the advice of our municipal engineer, planner and medical health officer, the reeve of Saanich is reported to have advocated approval, on moral grounds, to a housing subdivision where complex sewage problems seem inevitable.

Our reeve's first obligation, moral or otherwise, is not to some private interests wishing to exploit their property, but to Saanich ratepayers as a whole.

The present council is not bound by the verbal assurances of past councils, and it is to be hoped that the rest of our councillors will show a more realistic approach to this particular subdivision problem before an irrevocable decision is reached.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

The politically settled section of what now is Eastern Canada passed from French to British control 202 years ago today — in 1763 — at the signing of the Treaty of Paris by British and French government representatives. The treaty marked the end of the Seven Years' War which actually ended four years earlier with the capture of Quebec by General Wolfe. The treaty stripped France of all her possessions north of what later became the United States, except for the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, which she still controls.

1804 — Upper and Lower Canada were united.

1939—Pope Pius XI died.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — the U.S. government in a note to Britain deprecated use of neutral flags by British ships and warned Germany against further attacks on U.S. shipping in the submarine "war zone;" Russian troops continued their retreat in Bukowina.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago to-day 1940—French troops repulsed a German attack on the Western Front near Saarelouis; the French Chamber of Deputies gave Premier Daladier a vote of confidence after secret sessions; Finns attacked Russian-held sections of the Mannerheim Line and reported the destruction of 72 Russian tanks.

Nazis' Victims

Shrinking Hopes

By THOMAS LAND
from London

A UNITED Nations agency is engaged in desperate, last-minute efforts to bring about amendments in a bill now before the West German Parliament, in the interest of thousands of victims of Nazism — many of them new Canadians.

Germans have grown thoroughly tired during the past 20 post-war years of living in the accusing shadow of the Third Reich. And Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Bonn government now appears to be seeking a final settlement with the past.

One of its devices is a bill aimed at bringing an end to two decades of legal battle over indemnification payments to victims of Nazism.

If the bill becomes a law in its present form, thousands of former concentration camp inmates, imprisoned by the Nazis solely on grounds of their nationality or political standing, could no longer hope for compensation. Many of these—most of them Poles, Yugoslavs, Czechs and Russians—have settled in Canada.

But the United Nations High Commission for Refugees is pressing for amendments in the bill which would provide for compensation to be paid to these people on a similar scale to that received by others persecuted by the Nazis because of their race or religion. The UN agency is backed in its efforts by some 35 British and international voluntary organizations.

The campaign to force the Bonn government to yield is based in the British capital. Representatives of both the UNHCR and the Standing Conference of the British Council for Aid to Refugees have paid formal visits to West Germany to press for a review of the indemnification issue.

Miss Lora Livingstone, an influential member of the standing conference, told me: "We feel much anxiety for these victims of Nazism against whom discrimination is being practiced. They suffered in Hitler's concentration camps just as severely as the other prisoners.

"But they have not been repaid—if, indeed, you can repay these things with money. Their requests for compensation have been turned down or delayed without adequate explanation.

"Decisions on these cases, made under authority of the finance ministry in Bonn, often suggest that there is truth in stories infiltration of former Nazis into high places in the West German government service."

Hard words—and Miss Livingstone is aware of the weight of every syllable.

John Kelly, the London representative of the UNHCR, told me that West Germany had paid his agency $10 million in 1960 for distribution as a "full and final payment" to compensate all national persecutees with up to 24 per cent permanent damage to their health.

More than 40,000 people applied; less than 12,000 applications were accepted. (Those with a minimum of 25 per cent permanent damage to health are compensated under a different scheme. West Germany has found a total of 500 applicants eligible in this category.)

"We got the money on condition that we distribute it to people who fit Bonn's definition for national persecutees," Kelly said. "And it excludes patriotic citizens in occupied countries tortured for participating in resistance movements, reading or distributing anti-Nazi leaflets, anti-Nazi jokes or listening to British radio broadcasts."

The money now is gone. And UNHCR has signed away its legal right to demand more by having accepted it in the first place as a final payment.

This left each "accredited" national persecutee with a little more than $800 compensation for his sufferings in Hitler's death camps. It also left thousands of others who did not quite fit the West German definition, but who have gone through the same experiences, without any indemnification.

Sir John A.'s Opinion

A Bi-National State

From The Gazette, Montreal

SHOULD English-speaking Canadians react unfavorably when French-speaking Canadians refer to themselves as a nation? Mr. Jean-Luc Pepin, the federal member for Drummond-Arthabaska, said they should not. He suggested that the meaning of the word "nation" should be looked up in the Oxford Dictionary.

This is the definition the Oxford dictionary gives: "NATION. Distinct race or people having common descent, language, history, or political institutions." By this definition French-speaking Canadians would certainly qualify.

But Mr. Pepin made the point that there is no reason why a people who are a nation should have to express themselves in a state of their own. That does not follow, and he himself is against separatism, or against the idea of two associate states, which would be separatism in effect, under another name. Loose associations of states have in the past "either moved on to become federations or have disintegrated." Canada should be a bi-national state: one state with two nationalities.

It is interesting to note that the alarm that is sometimes felt among English-speaking Canadians about the use of the word nation for French-speaking Canadians was not felt by Sir John A. Macdonald. He, certainly, was not in favor of two states; he favored a strong central government. Yet he believed that the French Canadian people should be regarded as a nation.

Writing a letter to a friend, Sir John A. Macdonald once said:

"He (the English-speaking Canadian) must make friends with the French.

"Without sacrificing the principles of his race or his lineage, he must respect their nationality. Treat them as a nation, and they will act as a free people generally do — generously. Call them a faction, and they become factious."

Old Sir John A. was a wise man. He did not believe that the English-speaking Canadian's respect for the French-speaking Canadian's nationality was against the interests of the Canadian state.

But Park Beauty Guarded

Strathcona Mining Can't Be Stopped

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Tuesday the government can't do anything to stop mining in Strathcona Park but it can safeguard the park's beauty.

He told the legislature there has been a lot of "unrealistic screaming" about the operations of Western Mines Ltd. within park boundaries.

But "any reasonable group," the minister said, would recognize that it is "financially impossible and completely impractical" to undo what was done through crown grants more than 30 years ago.

Mr. Kiernan said no decision has been made yet on the company's application to construct a new model town near the mine at the south end of Buttle Lake.

It would be "nonsense and stupidity," however, for the government to take the attitude that if the holders of crown mineral grants had a right to mine within the park their job should be made as tough as possible, the minister said.

"We should be concerned with safeguarding to the best possible extent the natural beauty of this area," Mr. Kiernan said.

When Strathcona Park was created in 1911 it was as a Class A park, he said, and therefore inviolate from all forms of intrusion.

Only six years later, however, the act was amended to "throw the park open" to crown granting of mineral and timber rights. These grants were given in perpetuity and today were causing the difficulties faced by the parks branch.

'NO GOOD SCREAMING'

These grants also conveyed the right to mine the minerals, said Mr. Kiernan.

"It's no good anyone standing up and screaming in this legislature or elsewhere that the minister should put it right by straightening up a situation that was created more than 30 years ago," he said.

Many thousands of dollars have been spent on proving mineral claims and any attempt to remove them from the park would cost too much to be practical, he said.

For New Curriculum

Vocational Wing Objective For Claremont

Claremont Senior Secondary School may get a vocational wing to bring it in line with the provincial government's new curriculum for secondary schools.

Outer Saanich School Board decided Monday to present a brief to Education Minister Leslie Peterson requesting provincial and federal funds be supplied to meet 90 per cent of the cost of the wing.

Cost of the wing was estimated at $250,000.

SOME SET ASIDE

"We already have $10,000 set aside for this wing," finance chairman Lewis Harvey said, "and we hope to get the other $5,000 in our spring referendum."

Under the vocational Schools' Act the federal and provincial shares would be 67.5 per cent and 22.5 per cent respectively, with the board paying the remaining 10 per cent within two years.

Residents of the school district agreed last week to transferring 150 Grade 11 and 12 students from North Saanich Junior-Senior Secondary School to Claremont next September, making Claremont the only senior secondary school in the district.

RESTRICTED

Mrs. Lindsay added that come September, Grade 13 at Claremont would be restricted to residents of the school district.

Meanwhile, the school board also approved the drawing up of plans to provide a six-room addition to Royal Oak Junior Secondary School.

Education chairman Mrs. E. P. Thomas explained that three of the extra rooms would be added to bring the vocational equipment up to date so that vocational students could transfer to Claremont without trouble.

NEW BUSES

The board also gave approval for the purchase of two new school buses.

"They would be used to handle the transporting of 150 students from North Saanich and to improve the overall transportation situation," Mrs. Lindsay said.

Workers March

Plane Policy Spurs Spat

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson stalked out of the House of Commons Tuesday night in an argument with former Defence Minister Peter Thorneycroft.

The incident occurred during a debate on an opposition Conservative party motion to censure the Wilson government on its handling of problems in Britain's aerospace industries.

SLIM MARGIN

The government defeated the motion by only five votes—306 to 301.

Uproar broke out when Thorneycroft and Wilson clashed over the TSR-2, Britain's version, still in the testing stages, of the U.S. F-111 attack bomber.

The clash occurred when Thorneycroft mentioned pledges on the TSR-2 made by Wilson's Labor party during the campaign for last October's general election.

PROTEST DECISION

Outside, about 2,000 aircraft workers marched through the streets of London to protest against the government's decision to buy American aircraft instead of British for the RAF.

The government announced last week its decision to cancel orders to the British Hawker-Siddeley P-1154 supersonic vertical takeoff jet fighter and the HS-681 transport in favor of American planes.

'BE BRITISH'

The marchers carried banners demanding "Keep the air force British," "Why buy planes that are U.S.?" "Come on, Harold (Prime Minister Harold Wilson), be British, buy British."

One group carried a black coffin marked "the body of British aircraft."

'Foe' Will See Flag-Raising

OTTAWA (UPI) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, champion of the Red Ensign through the long and bitter flag debate, will be on hand when the new Canadian flag is raised for the first time officially Monday.

"I'm glad Mr. Diefenbaker will be there," Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday after a cabinet meeting.

There was earlier speculation Diefenbaker might boycott the ceremony.

Formal Protests Sent Britain and Russia

The Soviet news agency Tass, in a dispatch from Hanoi, said North Vietnamese foreign minister Suan Thui sent a note to Russia and Britain, co-chairmen of the 1954 convention on Indochina.

The note accused the United States of "an extremely gross violation of international law and an intolerable provocation."

The note asked the signatories of the Geneva agreement "to take timely and energetic steps to stop the warlike American imperialists, ensure strict fulfillment of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Viet Nam and safeguard peace in Indochina."

It said the United States had attacked North Viet Nam 20 times since last Aug. 5.

RUSSELL PROTESTS

In London, meanwhile, British philosopher Bertrand Russel, 92, climbed the steps of the U.S. Embassy to hand in a letter denouncing the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam as unjust and fraught with "appalling danger."

Lord Russell turned up in a chauffeur-driven car with a letter addressed to Ambassador David Bruce.

Bruce returned to the United States Monday but the letter was accepted by minister Philip Kaiser.

Copies of the letter were sent to President Johnson, British Prime Minister Wilson, the UN Security Council and President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam.

In Jakarta, Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio failed to condemn the U.S. retaliatory action against North Viet Nam.

In a mildly worded statement, the foreign minister said Indonesia expected the situation in Viet Nam to become more serious "because we all know the attitude of Communist China which will not tolerate an attack on North Viet Nam from outside."

Meanwhile, President Sukarno held talks with Michel Forrestall, a member of the United States national security council.

No information was available about their talks but deteriorating relations between Indonesia and the United States were believed to have been discussed.

Contraceptives

All Five 'Totally Effective'

TORONTO (CP)—All five oral contraceptives licensed for sale in Canada provide "virtually 100 per cent" protection against pregnancy, says Dr. F. E. Bryans of Vancouver.

Dr. Bryans, head of the obstetrics and gynaecology department at the University of British Columbia, has published an article on oral contraception in the Canadian Medical Journal.

He identifies the contraceptives as enovid, enovid e, two forms of ortho-novum, and norlestrin—all of which may cause slight weight gain, nausea, headaches, dizziness, depression or apathy among some women using them.

SOME CAUTIONED

The contraceptives do not impair future pregnancy, he said, and "there is no evidence that the menopause is delayed or that years of fertility are prolonged."

However, Dr. Bryans cautioned women suffering from liver impairment, epilepsy, diabetes, cardiac or kidney disorders to seek their doctors' advice before using oral contraceptives.

Vancouver Port Sets Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—The port of Vancouver set a new record of 19,793,810 tons of cargo handled in 1964, compared with 16,927,168 tons in 1963. The cargo was loaded onto 21,462 vessels—up 284 from the year before.

RCN Ship Joining Nato Test

HALIFAX (UPI) — The navy destroyer-escort Columbia Tuesday left port to take part in a special NATO squadron of anti-submarine warships from four nations.

The Canadian submarine-chaser, commanded by Cmdr. Peter R. Hinton of Victoria, will form a four-vessel squadron along with warships from the United States, Britain and The Netherlands.

An official NATO statement released at The Hague said the purpose of the multi-national squadron was "to test the logistic possibilities of NATO countries and the supply of smaller vessels, even far from home ports." It said the port facilities in different NATO countries will also be tested.

'Press Plays Down Liberal Successes'

Accomplishments of the federal Liberal government have been minimized by newspapers with Conservative biases, provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault said Tuesday.

Speaking at a meeting of the University of Victoria's political science forum, Mr. Perrault blamed Tory papers for "pushing all these accomplishments to page 52 and reserving headlines for suggested scandals."

He reviewed federal bills since the Liberal government took office, calling it the most effective legislative period in the history of minority governments.

Turning to B.C., Mr. Perrault said that a provincial Hansard, a daily question period and extensive use of committees had all been "banned by Bennett."

He also said "Bennett had a secret meeting with Caouette and Gregoire and made a deal with them that they would block any possibility of a private bank in B.C. until he gets his bank."

Mr. Perrault said the purpose of Liberal policy is to "liberate people from the bonds which restrict the full development of their personality."

Used Beard For Sale

Looking for a couple of thrones? Or a slightly used beard? Or some surrealistic chairs?

These are some of the items being auctioned by the University of Victoria Players' Club to create badly needed space in the Gordon Head Theatre Hut.

Public and students are invited to attend the sale of outmoded props at the Theatre Hut at 12:30 Feb. 18.

Crash List Names Canadians

MONTREAL (CP)—Two more Canadians were listed Tuesday as among the 84 victims of a plane crash near New York.

Eastern Airlines notified relatives here that Louis Martel, 39, and his nephew, Serge Ledoux, 21, both of Ste. Hyacinthe, Que., were aboard the plane. Airline officials said earlier Judith Ann Durkin, 23, of Ottawa, was one of the two stewardesses.

Mr. Martel and Mr. Ledoux, last-minute passengers, were tonal specialists with a pipe-organ company.

Telephone Expansion Planned for Island

More than $7,000,000 will be spent this year by the B.C. Telephone Co. to expand facilities on Vancouver Island, Island division manager G. C. MacDonald said Tuesday.

He said $2,500,000 would be spent for the Victoria district, $1,750,000 for the Nanaimo district, $1,525,000 for the Campbell River district and $1,400,000 for long distance facilities.

The expenditure is part of a $42,000,000 expansion of facilities in B.C.

Now operating some 75 radio systems for communications, the company will add five systems. One will be between Salt Spring Island and Angeles Point, Wash., and one between Campbell River and Tahsis and Campbell River and Gold River.

NEW DIAL OFFICES

The B.C.-wide expansion program of $42,000,000 is the company's largest in seven years, exceeding the 1964 figure by $3,000,000.

It includes 11 new dial offices, bringing the B.C. Telephone total to 713. One will be on Vancouver Island, at Holberg.

Queen Tours Sudan Desert That British Made Bloom

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI)—Cheering crowds greeted Queen Elizabeth Tuesday as she toured vast cotton-growing regions reclaimed from the desert under the former British Colonial regime.

The tour of the 1,000,000-acre cotton fields and the Gezira dam project stretching 300 miles southeast of Khartoum occupied the entire second day of the Queen's visit to the Sudan.

At Wad Medani, on the Blue Nile 110 miles southeast of the capital, crowds swarmed around the Queen's car as she and Prince Philip drove along a dusty road to inspect a cotton gin.

CNR Yardmen Back at Work

VANCOUVER (UPI) — A spokesman for the CNR said Tuesday all yardmen and yardmasters, who booked off their jobs Sunday night and Monday in protest against the suspension of nine CNR crewmen, had returned to work.

The spokesman said the 86 yardmen and two yardmasters in Vancouver yards and a further 60 at Port Mann and New Westminster started back to work Monday night.

Shvetz Pulls Ambush That Finishes Blades

Triggerman

By JIM TANG

It was 8-2 when it was over but it was that old deerslayer, Bill Shvetz, who ambushed Los Angeles Blades at Memorial Arena last night and set up the victory which gave Victoria Maple Leafs a four-point grip on their fourth-place standing in the Western Hockey League.

Desperate after their 4-11-1 record this year had steadily worsened their playoff situation, the Blades came out hitting. They yielded a power-play goal, got it back before the first period was over and an edgy game was hanging in the balance when Shvetz laid his ambush as the Blades tried to go ahead while Sandy Hucul sat out a hooking penalty early in the second period.

The Blades were trying to get organized for another attack from their own zone when Shvetz slid unobtrusively across the blue line using a Los Angeles defenceman as a screen.

He did his stalking so well that Gordie Haworth did not notice him and when the Los Angeles centre made the pass-out Shvetz was anticipating, the Leaf defenceman stepped from behind cover and rifled the puck past Jack McCartan with a first-timer Bobby Hull would have envied.

Los Angeles	[illegible]	19	29	3	161	[illegible]	[illegible]

Last night's scores: Los Angeles 2 at VICTORIA 8; San Francisco 3 at Vancouver 5.

Next game: tonight—San Francisco at Portland.

That did in the Blades. Just 61 seconds later, Milan Marcetta stickhandled McCartan down and tucked the puck in from the side after being put away with a clever through pass from Fred Hucul.

From there, things just went from bad to worse for the Blades, who never quit trying but couldn't get anything working right against the fine checking performance of the well-rested Leafs, in their first competitive action in nine days.

Before the second period was over Larry Keenan had regained a tie with Charlie Burns, for the league's goal-scoring lead when he unexpectedly got a chance for his 28th scoring shot.

Evading a well-intentioned check in front of the Los Angeles blue line, Keenan pushed the puck directly to Harley Hodgson, who was in control when Keenan came around his would-be checker. But Hodgson got tangled up in his own feet, fell to the ice and Keenan swooped in to pick up the puck again with a clear path to the goal.

And that was the way it went for the Blades, who saw McCartan stoop for four more pucks behind him in the third period in a Victoria parade interrupted momentarily by Willie O'Ree's second soft goal of the night.

PROPER FINISH

Ed Mazur, whose checking caused the Blades to move Howie Young from right to left wing after a couple of first-period shifts, rifled in three successive goals and Lou Jankowski wrote the proper finish for the demoralized visitors when Fred Hucul's wide shot caromed off him and behind McCartan for his 23rd goal.

"I told you," an immensely-pleased Rudy Pilous said after the game.

HE WAS RIGHT

"They're ready," he said of his players, and he was never more right. Although the Blades might commiserate with themselves over some bad breaks here and there, an alert Victoria club took advantage of them—and forced most of them with steady harrassment.

Standout performances were there in number for a team which paid no attention to the sticky ice caused by the breakdown of the ice-surfacing machine and the continued weird penalty interpretations of referee Ron Wicks, a three-time loser as far as Victoria fans are concerned.

SOME STANDOUTS

Fred Hucul was one standout, his thoughtful passes setting up four goals. Keenan, an outstanding checker, had three assists to go with his goal and Al Millar really earned himself a shutout. And, of course, there were Shvetz and Mazur — and quite a number of others.

"We'll have to do it ourselves," manager Buck Houle told a luncheon meeting before the game as he reported an empty bag after a trip to Toronto. It looked last night as if "we" could do it.

Don't Remind Her

Canada's Next Barbara Ann?

CALGARY (CP) — Petra Burka of Toronto has an excellent chance to become the first Canadian since 1948 to become a world women's figure skating champion — but she doesn't like to be reminded of it.

Miss Burka, Canada's woman athlete of the year in 1964, was at the peak of her form Saturday as she captured her second successive Canadian women's title. The victory placed her on Canadian teams selected to compete at world and North American title meets in the United States within the next month.

Sjoukje Dijkstra of Holland, 1964 world champion, has become a professional, leaving Miss Burka, an 18-year-old high school student, among the front rank of contenders.

Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa last won a world figure skating championship for Canada in 1948.

"I don't like it when people say I should win this year now that Sjoukje's out," she said in an interview. "If I'm satisfied I've skated well, I'll be happy regardless of where I place."

She is a powerful, dramatic skater with a routine that includes 10 double jumps in four minutes, including the difficult double axel, in which she leaps a backward, turns twice in the air and lands backward.

Miss Burka, five feet, three inches tall, is a brunette. She was born in Holland of Czech and Dutch parentage, came to Canada at four and laced on her first skates three years later.

HER TITLES

At 12, she was the junior women's champion of central Ontario. She won the Ontario junior women's competition in 1961, was runner-up in the Canadian senior championships in 1962 and runner-up in the Canadian and North American meets in 1963.

She was a member of the Canadian world team in 1962-63-64.

TOP FREE SKATER

Miss Burka considers herself more adept at free-skating than compulsory figures and some observers have called her one of the top free-skaters in the world.

She won both the compulsory figures and free-skating sections as she captured the 1965 Canadian title and one judge gave her a perfect six points for artistic merit in free-skating.

She says she has made no decision whether to attempt professional skating eventually.

Lions' Profit Hits $209,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions, who set attendance records last year on the way to winning their first Grey Cup, Tuesday reported a profit of $209,000.

More than $81,000 of the Lions' profit was given to other clubs in the Western Football Conference under the gate equalization agreement.

Another $48,000 went toward development of minor football and to a fund for a junior sports stadium here, the club said.

The remainder left the Lions with an accumulated surplus of $383,599.

The club took in $926,464 last season while spending $717,455 on players, rental and other expenses, not including the gate equalization payment or minor football development.

Mrs. Serjeant In 'Must' Game

KIMBERLEY (CP)—Mrs. Leslie Cmolik's Kelowna rink remained undefeated Tuesday after four rounds in the B.C. women's curling championships.

Mrs. Cmolik has a chance to take the title today when she goes against a Campbell River rink led by Mrs. Frankie Serjeant.

Mrs. Serjeant's rink has a 2-1 won-loss record. Mrs. Cmolik has three wins in the round-robin bonspiel.

Should Mrs. Serjeant win this morning it will force a final game this afternoon.

In another game this morning, Bev Reber's Whitehorse rink goes against Flo Gustafson of Prince George to determine a runner-up. Also in contention for runner-up is Mrs. Isobel Morris' rink from Trail. Mrs. Morris has the bye this morning.

Fourth draw results:
Gustafson 8, Serjeant 5; Cmolik 13, Morris 8.

Hunting Permit Fees For All B.C. People

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Tuesday he doesn't agree that all revenue from hunting licences should go directly into game management in B.C.

Wildlife is a tremendous resource in this province, the minister told the legislature, but like the forests and the oil and gas reserves it belongs to all the people.

If, as some hunters suggest, all revenues from hunting licences went into management and harvesting of game, then it would be equally logical to say that all revenues from the forest industry should be ploughed back into the forests, Mr. Kiernan said.

Soccer Body Turns Down United Demand

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. soccer commission upheld Tuesday a ruling by the Pacific Coast League that Victoria United was not entitled to two points because of a forfeited game.

The coast league acted "correctly and completely within the rules of its constitution," said Frank Bain, secretary of the soccer commission.

Vancouver Columbus failed to appear in Victoria for a Jan. 16 game. Columbus claimed its team was detained by fog.

Victoria United promptly claimed two points, but the league turned this down. It did award Victoria the cost of staging the game.

United officials could not be reached for comment last night.

Canadians Club West Germans

WINNIPEG (CP)—Aided by sharp close-in passing, Canada swamped the touring West German Fuessen club 9-1 in an international hockey exhibition here Tuesday night before a crowd of 4,000.

The loss brought the West German tour record to three wins, three losses and three ties.

Defenceman Hansjorg Nagel was credited with the single German goal when the puck slid into the net past goaltender Don Collins from a scramble.

The Germans, winners of their home country's First Division for the past three years, meet the Calgary Spurs in Calgary tonight.

Several of the players on both clubs will meet again at the world championships at Tampere, Finland, March 4-14.

Twelve players on the Fuessen club are likely to make the national team and ten on the Canadian roster are slated to play in the championships.

Burnaby Talks Up Sports Complex

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Plans for a mammoth sports complex which would include a 40,000-seat football stadium, a 13,000 ice centre, hockey rink and basketball stadium, all within a one-section area, were revealed by Reeve Alan Emmott of nearby Burnaby Tuesday.

The complex would cost $6,000,000 and the football stadium would feature 40,000 seats with unobstructed view, all between the goal lines.

The reeve said success of the project would depend heavily on contributions from both the federal and provincial governments.

"If $100 million can be spent in Montreal in 1967, a few million dollars can be spent here," Reeve Emmott said. He said the remainder of the money would be raised by the establishment "of a responsible society to promote the sale of debentures or bonds."

"No representation will be made for funds at a municipal level," the reeve told UPI. "The municipality will have done its part by either donating or leasing the land on a long term basis."

Emmott said he had already requested meetings with B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan. He said he was confident of getting financial aid from both levels of government.

The project would mark the 1966 centennial of the joining of Vancouver Island with mainland British Columbia.

"We hope to get this thing off the ground so it will be completed in time for the '66 centenary," Emmott said.

He refuted reports that $2 million of the $6 million would come from the Grey Cup champion B.C. Lions football club. The Lions have a year left to play at the 36,000-seat Empire Stadium.

"We have not made a submission to the Lions as yet," Emmott said. "But we certainly will be, as we want to get this going by 1966 and they will be signing a new park lease at that time."

Vancouver Mayor William Rathie, when advised of the Burnaby project, scoffed at the plan.

Rathie, whose plan to build the "Stafford Smythe" $8 million coliseum in downtown Vancouver was scuttled by the city's ratepayers in last December's municipal elections, said, "What project? Why that's just an announcement."

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Colonist King Fisherman Contest records indicate that Saanich Inlet is the most productive spring salmon fishing water on Vancouver Island.

Each year since 1959, and probably before that, Saanich Inlet waters have provided outstandingly more spring salmon entries for the King Fisherman Contest than any other of the eight areas into which salmon fishing waters have been divided for contest statistical purposes.

Only exception was in 1963, the year of the fabulous pink salmon run in Victoria—Becher Bay-Sooke waters. For hidden weight prizes the humpies are allowed to be entered as spring salmon, so statistics in that year show those areas far ahead of Saanich Inlet in spring salmon entries.

If it were possible to separate the pink from the spring salmon entries, Saanich Inlet would probably be ahead in that year for spring entries.

In 1959 Saanich Inlet waters gave up 3,144 spring salmon entries for the May to October contest, compared with Courtenay-Campbell River area's 1,716 spring salmon entries.

In 1960 Saanich Inlet waters gave up 1,913 spring salmon five pounds or heavier for contest entries and Courtenay-Campbell River area was again second with 1,069 entries, including tyee salmon.

In 1961 Saanich Inlet entered 2,272 springs and Becher Bay to Victoria waterfront was second with 1,466 spring entries, but this again was a pink salmon cycle year. That year Cowichan Bay entered 880 springs, Alberni Inlet 665 (including tyees) and Courtenay-Campbell River 517, also including tyees.

In 1962 Saanich Inlet entered 2,423 springs and Cowichan Bay was second best with 895.

In 1963 Saanich Inlet entered 2,887 springs, compared with Becher Bay to Victoria's 9,958 springs and humpies, and Port Renfrew to Sooke's 4,896 springs and pinks.

In 1964 Saanich Inlet entered 1,976 springs and Cowichan Bay was second with 628 springs.

But Saanich Inlet coho fishing is a different story.

Saanich Inlet usually ranks third in coho entries and in 1963 it ranked sixth out of eight areas.

Best coho areas do not change from year to year, but the Campbell River-Courtenay area has been ahead in four of the six years.

In 1964 Deep Bay-Qualicum-Nanoose waters produced most coho entries, 3,012, compared with Courtenay-Campbell River's 2,755 and Saanich Inlet's 1,898.

In 1963 Becher Bay to Victoria waters led the coho entries with 2,453 entries, to make a fabulous 12,411 combined spring, pink and coho entry from that one area. Saanich Inlet was sixth with only 807 coho entries that year.

In 1962 Courtenay-Campbell River had 2,673 coho entries, Nanaimo-Qualicum 2,235 and Saanich Inlet 1,053.

In 1961 Courtenay-Campbell River led again with 1,761 coho, Becher-Victoria had 1,044 entries and Saanich Inlet was fourth with 679. Nanaimo-Qualicum had 684.

In 1960 Courtenay-Campbell River had 4,163 coho entries, Nanaimo-Qualicum 2,722 and Saanich Inlet 867.

In 1959 Courtenay-Campbell River entered 5,527 coho, Becher-Victoria 1,634 and Saanich Inlet 1,097.

These entry statistics only cover the May to October contest period. They do not take into consideration the sometimes spectacular winter fishery in the nursery grounds of Saanich Inlet. Nor is the big Saanich Inlet jackspring fishery considered.

If the baby coho caught in the winter were allowed to grow up, Saanich Inlet could conceivably outstrip all other areas in coho fishing as well as spring salmon fishing.

On the other hand most of these baby fish might migrate from the Inlet to be caught in Gulf Islands waters as fighting five and six-pound coho in July and August.

Somebody will benefit by the cutback in commercial fishing time and sports catch limits, but just who will benefit is not as yet too clear. That is why federal fish biologists are conducting an extensive grilse tagging program.

From a total of 240 tags recovered from the Saanich Inet program, the sports fishery recovered 112 tags from the time of tagging in early December 1963 to the end of March 1964. Recoveries in the Inlet dropped sharply thereafter, as did the sports catch, indicating that a major outward migration took place at that time. Throughout the season another 43 tags were recovered in Saanich Inlet, 28 from the Gulf Islands, 12 from Strait of Juan de Fuca, nine from the U.S. San Juan Islands and Puget Sound, eight from the Fraser River area, 20 from the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Four were recovered in spawning streams and another four from unreported areas.

A preliminary analysis of tag returns suggests the majority of Saanich Inlet winter grilse stock is harvested in Saanich Inlet and the Gulf Islands and that the Saanich Inlet stock does not contribute to the productive blueback fishery of the more northerly areas of Georgia Strait.

Golf Machine Helpful

Every Shot Down Middle

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (CNS) — His stomach growls when he swings a golf club and he should be weak as a kitten, because he never eats. But he is bigger than Jack Nicklaus — and stronger. He can drive golf balls 285 yards on the fly. The shots all land within a 15-foot circle.

He can hit every shot in the book—a fade or draw, a slice or hook and a high shot or low. Yet he has never won a tournament or been on a golf course.

Still, president Ted Woolley and the people here at the Golfcraft, Inc. plant have paternalistic faith in "The Monster," the first machine ever devised that will swing a golf club and hit the ball exactly the way the leading pros do. It will hit both woods and irons at any distance up to about 325 yards.

"The Monster" sounds like a Rube Goldberg contraption and even looks a bit like one, but it is part of a scientific program that may have a strong impact on golf.

Golfcraft is using the mechanical marvel to test both clubs and balls. And though "The Monster" is still in an experimental stage, test results already are rewarding.

An even more refined model, perhaps to be known as "Son of The Monster," is being developed to aid the nation's golfers.

When the newer model is perfected within the next few months, Golfcraft will have a mobile laboratory that can test each golfer's swing and prove to him what he needs in the way of club weight, club length, shaft stiffness, etc.

Once a golfer has learned the maximum speed at which he can swing a club, he'll be able to stand by and watch "Son of The Monster" duplicate the swing using clubs of various weights and stiffness. For the first time, it will be possible to be fitted scientifically for a set of clubs.

Four Cagey Questions

Will John Lauvaas' ankle stand up under the stress of two weekend games?

Can Victoria Chinooks keep Vancouver CYO's Ed Suderman in check?

How do you stop Billy-Joe Price?

Will Pete Simmonds start finding the range as he did throughout the season?

Lauvaas sprained his right ankle last Friday in the opening game of the Inter-City Junior Men's League best-of-five final. His limp was still noticeable Monday but team officials are hoping for full recovery by Friday.

Suderman, who joined the defending Canadian junior champion CYO for the final game of the regular schedule, has been Saints' most consistent playoff performer, the player who gives the club its bounce.

Chinooks and CYO are even, 1-1, in games and they'll also be in action at Central Saturday night.

HAVE TO WIN

Grocers lead the senior series, 2-0, so Chiefs will have to win Friday to force another double-header Saturday. If Chiefs win, they'll play the early game Saturday.

Simmonds, Inter-City Senior Men's League individual high scorer during the regular season, has been held to 25 points in two semi-final games against Vancouver Grocers, well below his regular season average of 20.6 points per game.

ONE-MAN TEAM

Price has been a one-man team for Grocers and practically wrecked Chiefs singlehanded in the first two games of the best-of-five series.

"He's the best man I've seen in senior basketball in a long time," says Chiefs' manager Ken King. "He just takes over out there. He killed our offence, playing a one-man zone."

Darrel Lorimer was Chiefs' top sniper in the first two games and he matched Price's 21-point outing Sunday.

Lead Series

Esquimalt trimmed Metropolitan, 59-23, in the first game of the best-of-five Victoria and District Amateur Basketball Association bantam boys' semi-final series Monday night.

Second game will be played at Mount View Senior High School tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Markets Mount Brisk Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Tuesday seemed to discount the possibility of a drastically worse situation in Viet Nam and mounted a brisk rally.

Eastern Air Lines advanced 2⅝ to 53½ on 80,900 shares, making it third most active stock despite dropping a point at the start on reaction to the tragic disaster involving one of its airliners.

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocks rose for the first time in three days in moderate trading Tuesday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

* * *

Woodward's to Build Prince George Centre

Woodwards Stores (Vancouver) Ltd. announced Tuesday it plans a $3,000,000 shopping centre in Prince George.

It said that work on the 153,600-square-foot complex will start in March and is due to be completed by September, 1966.

The centre would be built on a 13½-acre site with parking for 750 cars.

There would be a two-storey Woodward department store and 12 to 15 other shops connected by a central enclosed mall. The department store would cover 104,640 square feet.

An American company that planned a $25,000,000 recreation complex near Fernie says it has decided not to build here because of a pending pulp mill application.

Phillip W. Ray, executive vice-president of Third-Equity Corporation, wired city council from Boulder, Colo., he was withdrawing all plans for the development in Cedar Valley, intended to include several lodges, a motel, swimming pools, ski lift and other facilities to attract tourists.

Mr. Ray visited Fernie last week to consult with civic authorities and officials of the Crows Nest Pass Coal Company concerning Crows-Nest's application to build a pulp mill near here and the possibility of odor from the mill.

British Columbia Telephone Co. has applied to the Board of Transport Commissioners for authority to issue $20,000,000 in cumulative, redeemable, preferred shares.

The new issue will be used in part to redeem currently outstanding 6¼ per cent shares of the same type.

Canadian Aviation Electronics Ltd. of Montreal Tuesday announced the purchase of Canadian Sumner Iron Works Ltd. of Vancouver for an undisclosed sum.

* * *

Okanagan Telephone Company has announced it will offer additional shares at $15 each to shareholders of record Feb. 8. Shares were quoted on the Vancouver Stock Exchange at $21.75 a week ago. In an offer that closed March 18 and does not include United States and Ontario shareholders the company will sell one new share for every seven held.

Two Bids Opened For High Arrow

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Foundation Company of Canada Monday submitted a low bid of $69,780,415 to the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority for construction of the giant High Arrow Dam on the Columbia River near Castlegar in the B.C. Kootenays.

Only two bids were submitted for the 175-foot high, 2,800-foot long concrete and earth fill dam.

FOUR FIRMS

The other, a bid of $71,876,494, came from a consortium consisting of Mannix Construction Company of Calgary, Standard-General Construction Company of Toronto, MacNamara Construction Company, Toronto, and Emil Anderson Construction Company of Hope, B.C.

The bids were opened by Hydro co-chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, who said it is hoped to let the tender within two weeks for the big dam, second of three to be constructed along the Columbia system in accordance with the terms of the Canada-U.S. Columbia River development treaty recently concluded between the two countries.

PEACE GENERATORS

The hydro authority also announced the awarding of a $7,600,000 contract to Canadian General Electric for the supply of five 227,000-kilowatt generators for Portage Mountain powerhouse on the Peace River.

A $4,700,000 contract had previously been awarded to Mitsubishi International Corporation of Japan, for supply of five matching turbines.

Board Already Seeking One

Pediatrician Moot

The need for a pediatrician on the staff of the Metropolitan Board of Health was questioned Tuesday by Dr. H. R. Carter, Oak Bay representative on the board.

Dr. Carter also said he wonders why a pediatrician has to be brought in from outside.

"Victoria already has more pediatricians than it needs.

'SEEMS ODD'

"It seems odd to me that a man has to be brought in from outside when local pediatricians are doing work outside pediatrics to keep busy," said the Oak Bay representative attending his first meeting as a board member.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, explained the procedure whereby school children are cared for after being found in need of treatment.

The board pediatrician would not be in competition with other specialists in the area, he explained. Furthermore, he would be able to help with well-baby clinics.

"I can hardly see the need for a pediatrician at a well-baby clinic. Most cases I have seen, and I have attended many such clinics, can be handled by a public health nurse or an intern," Dr. Carter said.

REFUSE TO SUBMIT

Dr. G. P. Evans, assistant medical health officer, explained that in some cases parents refuse to submit their children to needed treatment.

Furthermore, he said, although Victoria is well supplied with pediatricians, the board's authority extends to areas where pediatricians are few and far between.

Dr. Carter said few mothers would refuse to take their babies to doctors when told they are ill. If she did, surely pressure could be brought to bear.

ALREADY DECIDED

Mrs. A. B. Thompson brought discussion to a halt when she said hiring a pediatrician was not in question. That already was decided by the board.

Quite so, said the chairman, Central Saanich Reeve R. G. Lee.

Dr. Carter will get plenty of chance to discuss such matters later.

"Thanks for giving me the opportunity of saying anything," said Dr. Carter.

Dr. Whitbread said advertisements for a pediatrician have been placed in medical journals.

Salary will range from $12,660 to $13,920.

Hollywood Chortles

Julie 'Thanks' Warner For Her Film Award

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie crowd chortled Tuesday over Julie Andrews remark about Jack L. Warner.

It happened Monday night when the Hollywood Foreign Press Association presented the British star with its Golden Globe Award as best musical or comedy actress of 1964 for her performance in Mary Poppins.

"And my thanks to Mr. Jack L. Warner, who made a wonderful movie and made all this possible."

Miss Andrews, who originated the role of Eliza Doolittle in My Fair Lady on Broadway, had been passed up by Warner for the film version that starred Audrey Hepburn.

Warner received an award for My Fair Lady as the best musical or comedy of 1964.

My Fair Lady also won a Golden Glove for best musical or comedy acting performance for Rex Harrison. The awards for best dramatic performances were won by Peter O'Toole of Becket and Anne Bancroft of Pumpkin Eater.

Marcello Mastroianni was present to receive his citation as world film favorite. Another Italian, Sophia Loren, was hailed world film favorite actress, but she didn't make the trip.

Best supporting actor — Edmond O'Brien of Seven Days in May.

Best director—George Cukor for My Fair Lady.

Best foreign film—Marriage, Italian Style.

Best television personalities—Gene Barry of Burke's Law and Mary Tyler Moore of The Dick Van Dyke Show.

Best television program—The Rogues.

Car Washers In Marathon

Sleep will take the back seat to suds when the Classic Car Club holds its marathon 36-hour car wash this weekend.

The 10-member club will be ing washing at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and finish midnight Monday at Suburban Shell, Saanich and Douglas.

Proceeds from the wash will be divided among a charity, the Vancouver Island Drag Association and the club.

Navy Vessels Off to Pacific

Off to the Orient later this month are the Esquimalt-based destroyer-escorts HMCS Saskatchewan and Mackenzie and the ocean escort HMCS Beacon Hill.

The 2½-month training and goodwill cruise will include calls at Pearl Harbor, Midway, Guam and Japan.

Battalion to Mark Golden Anniversary

Victoria's 30th Battalion will mark the 50th anniversary of its departure for the First World War at a dinner in the Ingraham Hotel at 7 p.m. Feb. 13.

About 50 veterans are expected to attend.

Of the 1,100 infantrymen who sailed from Victoria on St. Valentine's Day, 1915, there are 98 survivors, said Sgt. Richard Prowse of 987 Inverness.

MOST IN B.C.

"There is one each in England, Scotland and California, six in Ontario, one in Puyallup, Wash., but most are in B.C.," he said.

The 30th was made up of men from regiments all over B.C. It was formed in November, 1914, and lasted until April, 1915, when it was split into three groups which were absorbed by the 7th, 15th and 16th Battalions in France.

"We'll have a rum issue, sing a few songs and talk about the old battles," Sgt. Prowse said.

Kelly's First Is Last

NEW YORK (CP)—Kelly, an expensive musical which opened to scathing reviews on Broadway Saturday night, has folded after only one performance.

The play, with Toronto actor Don Francks in the title role of Hop Kelly, was reported to have cost $850,000. The main backers were Joseph E. Levine, David Susskind, Daniel Melnick and Columbia Records.

Court Lifts Ban On Goldfarb Film

NEW YORK (AP)—A court decision banning the showing of the movie, John Goldfarb, Please Come Home, was reversed Tuesday. The University of Notre Dame sought the ban because of references in the story to the university's football team.

A five-man court of the appellate division of the state supreme court, in issuing its decision, granted a 10-day stay of the entry of the order.

This had the effect of giving the university time to ask for permission to appeal the ruling to the court of appeals, the state's highest court.

The court, in a unanimous opinion, vacated an injunction issued against the 20th Century-Fox film Dec. 18 by State Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg.

The $4,000,000 movie had been scheduled to open Christmas Day.

Fired Youth Stole Car In Revenge

A youth who stole a 1956 Pontiac from his former employers was sentenced Tuesday in city magistrate's court to eight months definite, four months indefinite, in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla.

Magistrate William Ostler told the youth, Thomas A. Macleod, of 2251 Belmont, that he obviously needed some kind of training to fit him for employment and he would receive this at Oakalla.

Macleod had pleaded guilty to stealing the car from Morrison Motors, 909 Yates, Jan. 30 and to driving while his licence was suspended.

He told police he stole the car because he had a grudge against the member of the firm who fired him.

On the suspension charge, Macleod received a sentence of one month concurrent.

The careless driving charge was substituted by the crown after it withdrew a dangerous driving charge. Michael's plea on the impaired charge was changed from an earlier one of not guilty.

According to Crown evidence, a police officer spoke to Michael early Jan. 9 while the man was sitting in a truck on Niagara Street and warned him not to drive.

Moments later Michael drove off and was chased by a police car which clocked up to 70 miles per hour without gaining on the truck, court was told.

Michael eventually stopped the truck of his own accord. He told police he had consumed eight beers.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said Michael had a long string of driving convictions.

Michael was jailed for 21 days on the impaired charge and fined $75 for careless driving.

John Cannon, 20, of 1051 Hyacinth, was jailed for seven days for failing to remain at the scene of an accident Sunday morning.

He was fined $25 for driving without insurance.

Cannon, who pleaded guilty to both charges, drove into the rear of a car on Lansdowne. He told police he left the scene because he knew the accident was his fault and he was scared.

Gregory F. Pierce, 22, of 915 Fullerton, was bound over to be of good behaviour for six months after pleading guilty to causing wilful damage.

Pierce smashed a glass ashtray in the waiting room of the Jubilee Hospital Jan. 20.

Talker Sought In Cheque Deal

City detectives are looking for a fast-talking man suspected of trying to pull a phony cheque deal Monday on four Victoria nursing homes.

Claiming to come from Calgary, he told the nursing homes Monday afternoon he wanted his father to be admitted at 8:30 that evening for a month.

NO ROOM

A Beacon Hill Rest Home, 635 Superior, there was no room, but at the others he arranged for admittance, offered cheques for more than the cost of a month's stay.

He received $55 cash from a nursing home at 711 Pemberton—change for his $255 Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce cheque on the 1301 Government branch.

NO SUCH PHONE

Police were called after the nursing home found a Calgary telephone number the man gave is nonexistent.

The Postles Haven Rest Home, at 976 Heywood, and the Alpine Lodge Rest Home, at 1663 Oak Bay, refused to accept his cheques.

Police described the man as between 35 and 40, brown hair, sallow complexion, and very rapid in speech.

Ratepayers Plan Plea

Intensive Farming Not Group's Intent

Albert Head Ratepayers' Association will ask Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to ban intensive agriculture in the group's area.

The group decided Monday night to ask that piggeries, mushroom or mink farms, kennels or animal shelters and hospitals be eliminated in the area.

'COUNTRY HOME'

Present legislation allows intensive agriculture on plots of more than five acres.

"We're aiming to establish an area for country home living," group chairman Jim Buchanan of 3828 Duke Road, explained.

Mr. Buchanan said the group isn't against dairy farming or similar uses, but added there have been several complaints about kennels.

The meeting also approved an extension of association boundaries to include Farhill Road as far as Latoria Road.

PRESERVE PARK

A motion also was approved calling for preserving Park Drive lagoon as a park.

And when the defence department no longer requires Albert Head, the group proposes it be turned into a park.

Next meeting is scheduled at 8 p.m. March 8 in Metchosin parish hall.

New Theatre 'Bigger Than Manager or Myself'

Smile Showman to Help Open Playhouse

By IAN ARROL

Jerry Gosley, the Smile Shop impresario, will be on stage at the McPherson Playhouse for Lights Up!, March 1-4.

The last time Mr. Gosley and the Playhouse made news together was Dec. 5 when he announced he was giving up the Summer Smile Show that had been part of the Victoria scene for more than a decade because Playhouse manager Robert Ellison would not give what Mr. Gosley considered satisfactory bookings.

"I was asked to take part in the opening Victoria show long before this unfortunate episode (of the bookings) occurred. McPherson Theatre is a marvellous thing, far bigger than both the manager and myself," commented Mr. Gosley Tuesday night.

Spring and summer plans for the entertainer may include a trip to Florida in April for two weeks, Harrison Hot Springs in the near future, Penticton in August and possibly to Kelowna, too.

In the Lights Up! show Mr. Gosley will be one of the community's 150 first people of the theatre, representing more than 20 groups combining in a two-hour musical and dramatic presentation whose message will be This is show business!

Mr. Smile Show will star as Capt. Vancouver in a skit entitled Looking at Victoria.

"The production will be made up of highlights of famous shows—musical and comical—combined with the best sketches devised by the talents of Victoria," said Peter Mannering, director and co-ordinator.

"There will be the music from Brigadoon, show tunes of Noel Coward, excerpts for The Importance of Being Earnest, a dance innovation based on the music of Brubeck."

Fred Usher will star in a skit called Back to the Twenties in which Anne Appleby will be the dancer. Art Budd will be one of those in the skit Auntie Saves the Day.

Shakespeare, Now and Then will feature Margaret Hall singing 'I Hate Men from Kiss Me Kate and then a scene from The Taming of the Shrew with Carl Hare, chairman of the theatre division committee, University of Victoria, taking the part of Petruchio.

Allan Husband will sing 'Tonight' from West Side Story. Singers in the chorus are from local operatic and choral societies.

They will be joined by dancers for French Canada on Stage, directed by Capt. J. M. Gayfer with choreography by Vivian Briggs.

Scottish dancing will be directed by Adeline Duncan as David and Gordon Ross pipe. A second feature of Scotland on Stage will be modern, with a selection from Brigadoon and choreography by Wynne Shaw.

On the first three opening nights — Feb. 26 with Elsa Lanchester, March 1 with Lights Up!, March 5th with the Victoria Symphony and Victoria Choral Society — champagne punch and food will be served to patrons in the actors' lounge, the Green Room.

On opening night of the fourth show (Ring Around the Moon, March 6, wine and cheese will be served.

Charges Quashed

Hankinson Goes Free

By GEOFFREY MINISH

Former Victoria car dealer George K. Hankinson walked out of city magistrate's court a free man Tuesday after quashing of charges that he had conferred benefits on suspended B.C. government purchasing commissioner G. E. P. Jones.

Two charges were laid against Hankinson. One said he had conferred a benefit on Jones, described in both charges as a government official, through the withholding of a $1,500 payment due on a 1963 Dodge sedan bought by Jones.

The other said he had conferred a benefit on Jones by selling him a 1964 Dodge in a straight trade for a 1963 Dodge of less value.

COUNTY COURT

Two charges against Jones of receiving unlawful benefits in the purchase of two cars from Hankinson's firm, the now defunct Pacific Chrysler Products, were dismissed Jan. 15 in County Court by Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake.

When the preliminary hearing in the Hankinson case opened Monday defence counsel J. Alan Baker asked Magistrate William Ostler to quash the charges on the grounds that Judge Drake had ruled Jones was not a government official and the magistrate must be bound by the judge's decision.

NOT A CRIME

It was no crime to confer a benefit on Jones as a private individual, Mr. Baker argued.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie opposed Mr. Baker's submission, saying that in ruling on Jones' status the judge had misdirected himself.

QUEBEC CASE

The judge had followed the decision of a Quebec court, which in a case known as the Despres case had ruled that an official of the provincial liquor control board was not a government official.

What the judge had apparently not known, however, was that the Quebec court's ruling was later reversed by the Supreme Court of Canada, Mr. McKenzie said.

CHARGES VOID

When the hearing resumed Tuesday Magistrate Ostler ruled the charges against Hankinson were a nullity and must be quashed.

Giving his reasons, Magistrate Ostler said that unless it could be clearly shown that Judge Drake had made a ruling that was contrary to the Supreme Court decision in the Despres case or to some superior court in any other case, he as magistrate was bound to follow him.

UNABLE TO DO SO

"In the absence of such an ineluctable conclusion, I would be presuming to review Judge Drake's decision, which I am unable to do," Magistrate Ostler said.

The magistrate also said that in the Despres case the Supreme Court was considering the status of persons working for the Quebec Liquor Commission and had not decided the exact status of someone like Jones.

DIFFERENCES

There were differences in the conditions under which officials of the Quebec board and the B.C. purchasing commission held their appointments, the magistrate said.

In his reasons for judgment, it was also clear Judge Drake had made a distinction between the purchasing commission and other B.C. commissions.

"Whatever may be said about Judge Drake's ruling," the magistrate concluded, "the Crown may certainly appeal from mine."

Bonner Awaits Report

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday he expects some action to be taken concerning the suspended chairman of the B.C. purchasing commission during the course of this legislative session.

G. E. P. Jones was suspended last Oct. 2, when he was charged with receiving favors from a city car dealer, but although he was exonerated by the courts Jan. 15 no action has been taken to reinstate him.

NO COMMENT

Mr. Bonner Tuesday had no comment on the report that charges against George K. Hankinson, who had been accused of giving favors to Mr. Jones, had been thrown out by Magistrate William Ostler.

The attorney-general said he would await a report from prosecutor Lloyd G. McKenzie.

Up with Maple Leaf

Ensign's End Monday

By GARY OAKES

A national symbol will officially die about noon Monday.

It will be given a ceremonial coast-to-coast funeral and then buried but not forgotten.

In its place will rise a new symbol, born only recently on the political battlefield.

Shed a tear for the dear old Ensign but salute the Maple Leaf.

Many won't. They will retain the old and ignore the new. Defiant to the end, these diehards will cling to the Red Ensign's past and turn thumbs down on the maple leaf's future.

Some Victorians will even wave smaller replicas of the new flag—probably Japanese-made models which sell from 25 cents to several dollars in a few stores.

Beware of the made-in-Japan flag, however, as it isn't officially correct.

It is the wrong color, the wrong proportion and features the wrong maple leaf,' but otherwise it's perfect.

The official maple leaf has 11 points and looks like an authentic maple leaf. Japan's effort has 13 points and looks like three silhouettes of the Ottawa Peace Tower.

Each bar on the official flag is one-quarter of the overall length, making the white centre exactly half the size of the flag.

On the Japanese 'flag the bars are considerably smaller and the color is a much darker red than the official version.

There are those who will say Canada's new flag should be made in Japan because it looks like the rising sun.

But they are the last stronghold of bitter resistance to a new and distinctive Canadian flag.

Pulling down the old will break a link with the past while raising the new will forge a promise for a Canadian future.

Services Plan Flag Parades

But otherwise, official adoption of Canada's new flag, the red maple leaf, will be marked quietly and with little fuss or none at all.

Troops of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada will parade at Work Point Barracks while the army band plays Auld Lang Syne to mark the passing of the Red Ensign.

In addition, Protestant and Roman Catholic chaplains will read dedication prayers during the ceremony which starts at 11:40 a.m.

The navy will fire a 21-gun salute to mark the change while about 800 sailors parade at Naden.

Royal Roads cadets will parade in scarlet tunics as the three service ensigns are lowered and replaced by the maple leaf.

Other federal government departments will simply change flags about noon as will the provincial government, although a ceremony is possible.

Because new flags are in short supply, Greater Victoria schools will replace the Red Ensign with the B.C. provincial flag Monday without ceremony.

However, a school board spokesman said consideration is being given to holding ceremonies when the new flags are available. Some schools will continue flying the Red Ensign until new flags are available.

Department stores and civilians who have flag poles are on their own as far as changing the flag is concerned.

Immediate Action

Plea Going to Ottawa To Help Battle Algae

By A. H. MURPHY

Immediate federal help will be sought by district health authorities to combat the growth of poisonous blue-green algae in Langford Lake.

The Metropolitan Board of Health decided Tuesday to apply to Ottawa for a special research health grant to provide the University of Victoria with money to find out the why and the wherefore of the long-standing problem and how to solve it.

THROUGH PROVINCE

Application for the grant for the department of biology of the university will be channelled through the provincial department of health.

"This matter is urgent," said the senior medical health officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, dictating the text of the board resolution authorizing application for the grant.

MAKING STUDY

Present at the board of health meeting was Dr. Alan Austin, university biologist, who has been making a study of the algae and their effects over the past few months.

In answer to the question, Dr. Austin said other local lakes may also have algae, but in much reduced amounts.

"I'm afraid there is not much we can do unless we ourselves receive help," said Dr. Austin, who has been working on the problem on his own time.

It was indicated other interested parties may be drawn into the research project after it gets going. These could include fisheries and game departments and departments of agriculture, federal and provincial.

LETTER SENT

A letter was sent earlier to the provincial department of health asking availability of funds for a study by Dr. Austin and his colleagues.

Board Rejects Sewage Bids

The Metropolitan Board of Health reaffirmed its strong general policy against pollution Tuesday when it opposed two applications, one to discharge effluent into the soil, the other to dump it into a creek.

The provincial Pollution Control Board wrote to say it received an application from the Isherwood brothers for a permit to build a sewage-treatment plant on the site of a proposed hotel on the Patricia Bay Highway.

TREATMENT PLANT

The second application, from the municipality of Saanich, asked permission to extend the existing treatment plant on Carey Road at the junction of Colquitz Creek to serve the new subdivision of Northridge.

Chairman R. G. Lee, reeve of Central Saanich, said, as the board's policy had been adamantly against pollution, the application should be opposed and members agreed.

In the second instance it was pointed out that the city of Victoria was against the extension of the Carey Road plant because of possible pollution of the Gorge and the board backed a resolution opposing pollution of inland waters by any means.

May Be Quicker Than Air!

Provincial Ferry To Seattle?

The government should start a ferry service between here and Seattle if it can't persuade Air Canada to improve its service, says Victoria MLA Waldo Skillings.

During budget debate in the House Tuesday night the Socred MLA said it is sometimes quicker to drive here than it is to fly from Seattle.

HIGHWAY NEED

He also told the House in his 40-minute speech:

- Greater Victoria has had a public transportation problem for the past 20 years and this problem is "basically the responsibility of the municipalities, not this government."
- When this province has a budget of $400,000,000, Premier Bennett should "find enough money" for Highways Minister Gaglardi to improve the Patricia Bay Highway.
- The B.C. Telephone Company "which made $10,000,000 last year" should establish an emergency call number. Mr. Skillings said he heard of one person who tried to dial the operator "15 times with no reply."

On the air transportation problem, he said that anyone from the eastern United States who misses the 9:10 a.m. Air Canada flight to Seattle has to wait 11 hours for the next airplane to Victoria.

SIX HOURS AHEAD

One person who missed one of these flights rented a car in Seattle, drove to Tsawwassen and took a B.C. government ferry to Victoria, arriving here six hours ahead of the next plane, he said.

He suggested the government approach Air Canada in an effort to get more frequent service between here and Seattle.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: What does an intelligent, successful man think he is proving when he swears every time he opens his mouth?

Every day we see and hear intelligent and successful men on TV and radio who don't have to swear to get a point across.

My husband can't complete a sentence without putting a curse word in somewhere. Our daughters have asked him to please watch his language when guests are in the house, but it doesn't do any good.

I've never heard the neighbors' husbands swearing up a storm out in the front yard, but they've heard mine at least a dozen times this past summer.

Why does he do it and what can I do to get him to stop?—MRS. M.

Dear Mrs.: People who lace their language with strong expletives are attempting to add punch to their statements. They are afraid their ideas, simply stated, are not strong enough to persuade, so they fling in bits of jarring language.

The habit is a deep-seated one and nagging won't help knock it in the head. Now that you've made an issue of it he may use cursing as a weapon of rebellion against you. Ignore it and hope one day, when he is more confident he'll launder his language.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister and I, both unmarried, share an apartment. It is very convenient, for financial reasons. We are two and a half years apart in age. Both of us enjoy good health, we attend church regularly and we have many friends.

The trouble is I can't get my sister to accept her share of the responsibility for cooking or housekeeping. If she gets home first she sits and waits for me to decide what we are going to eat. And she likes to have me cook dinner and serve it.

My sister lets her laundry pile up, then begs me to do her things when I do mine. It's the same way with cleaning. I get tired of seeing her dressing table so messy so I straighten it.

Dear Di: You haven't told me how old your sister is, but this I can tell you — you are not going to change her. So long as you two live together your sister will take advantage of you. She has learned to manoeuvre you and you have not learned how to deal with her in a mature manner.

"Move out and find another roommate or accept the situation and stop aggravating yourself.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't give me a lecture. I know what I did wrong. What I need is one sentence of advice.

I am a 17-year-old girl who has gotten herself into a spot — the worst kind. I am pregnant. Can I make the boy marry me? Is there a law which says he has to give my baby a name?

I went with Stan when he lived here, but he is now in the Army and away. He says a person in the armed services cannot be forced to marry.

Actually I think Stan loves me and will marry me when the shock of parenthood wears off. But can I force him to marry me now?—CAPPY.

Dear Cappy: You cannot force a boy to marry you whether he is in the Army or not.

And now may I ask one question? Why in the world would you WANT a husband who had to be dragged to the altar—kicking and screaming? He is responsible for your medical care and the child's support, as any lawyer will tell you. But there is no law which will force a marriage—and I'm glad there isn't.

Recalls Snake Bite

A rattler bit her left thumb as she was gathering tree bark and she didn't see or hear it.

"Felt it though," she said in a recent interview.

They took a chicken, she recounted, beheaded it, gave her intoxicating liquor and put her arm inside the bird. She was "out" for eight days.

"Guess it saved me," she said.

It did. For next Saturday Mrs. Matilda Boynton will be 107—"at least that's what they tell me."

A Tennessee girl, born to slaves in Marion County, she says her parents died when she was a child. Grandparents took on the chore of raising her.

Before 1910, she thinks, she came to Vancouver with money saved from picking cotton — "good money but hard on you."

"I had travelling in my mind, so I came here."

She was befriended by a Vancouver family and is still with them.

The frail little old lady, a slave in the days of President Lincoln, admits to being twice married. Her second husband died only recently. She had three children —"two died little" and an adult son "got killed on a big boat."

She likes rum and cheroots but talks more to a pet bird than anyone else.

Birds don't ask questions and don't tax your memory, she says.

Married in East

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Downard travelled to North Bay, Ont., recently to attend the marriage of Patricia Ann Comerford, daughter of Mrs. J. P. Comerford of that city, and their son, Flt. Lt. Jay Ernest Downard.

Other out-of-town guests who attended were Miss Donna Rae Downard, also of Victoria; Mrs. L. T. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Small, Miss Mary Desanti, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. MacDonald and Lindsay and Robert Crook, all of London, Ont.; Lieut. MacAuley, Camp Borden, Ont.; Lieut. D. P. Chambers, Rivers, Man., and Flt. Lt. David Milton, Ville Jacque Cartier, P.Q.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Frederick Tayler. She wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie highlighted with lace and seed pearl appliques. Her veil misted to shoulder-length from a large white satin bow trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemum pon pons, Dracena leaves and ivy accented with glitter.

The Misses Janet and Joanne Comerford were maid of honor and bridesmaid for their sister. They chose street-length gowns of cranberry red satin brocade with matching bow headpieces. Pon pons, ivy and holly sprinkled with glitter formed their bouquets.

Flt. Lt. Hugh Stickle and Flt. Lt. K. O. Simonson were best man and groomsman. Guests were ushered to their pews by Barry Reid and Lieut. Kenneth Klein.

Over the miles
send your Valentine
by LONG DISTANCE...

it costs so little — why not phone tonight?

What a better way to add a happy memory to the day than a phone call to someone who is near or dear to you? For the miles are no longer a problem when you cover them by phone.

Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditure that have actually been reduced. Moreover, after 6 p.m. each evening and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth. Check the rates for yourself in your telephone directory or dial "O" and ask the operator.

In many cases you may be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there". In the evening, for example, you can make a call between Vancouver and Prince George for as little as $1.35; between New Westminster and Calgary for only $1.50; between Victoria and Toronto for a mere $2.35.

These are pretty modest prices to pay for the very best minutes of the day. Why not phone TONIGHT?

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

TV NOTES: The power of a personality: CBS led in U.S. ratings on the morning of the Churchill funeral until a David Brinkley hour special which gave NBC twice the CBS figure . . . Buddy Ebsen of Beverly Hillbillies, who started as a Broadway hoofer, has completed a play which took him 20 years to write. The Champagne General, about Gen. George McLellan and Abraham Lincoln, will premiere March 24 in California . . . Series news: Ben Casey will be back next year, Hazel may return with a new family, Bing Crosby may have a new series and Lucille Ball is undecided about returning.

The Canadian National Council of Churches has published four criteria for children's programs. The council says they should:

Provide a rich variety of experience enabling a child to see himself as a sufficient part of the total culture, the adult world; transmit new, progressive ideas and prepare children to meet social change creatively; help children comprehend, assimilate and respond creatively to the world; offer an opportunity for learning by discovery.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

There are times when the path to winning defence is strewn with red herrings—and West players in the Team Trials were faced with quite a whopper on this deal. But there was a subtle clue to the winning play and all the Trialists detected it. Can you?

Vul: N-S	NORTH ♠ Q J 9 2 ♡ J 4 ◇ A ♣ K J 10 8 6 4
WEST (D) ♠ K 10 6 ♡ 8 3 2 ◇ J 6 3 ♣ 9 7 5 3		EAST ♠ A 8 ♡ 6 5 ◇ K 10 9 7 5 4 2 ♣ A 2
	SOUTH ♠ 7 5 4 3 ♡ A K Q 10 9 7 ◇ Q 8 ♣ Q

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	1 ◇	1 ♡
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♡
Pass	4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Diamond three

With four cards in partner's major suit, it is unusual to withhold support, but one has some sympathy for South's dilemma. Top-heavy hands sometimes play badly in a trump suit other than the main suit, but on this occasion four spades was unbeatable. Only one pair of Trialists, Marvin Altman and Fred Hoffer of Montreal reached this contract.

At other tables, West led a diamond against South's four heart contract and declarer crossed to his trump ace to ruff the diamond queen. When he led a small club from the board, East went in with the ace and played ace and another spade. West gave partner a spade ruff and the game contract bit the dust.

Problem: How did West know that East wanted to ruff a spade and not a club? Since South had failed to support spades, it must have appeared to West very unlikely that declarer held four spades. Yet every West player found the winning defence.

The answer is simple once you think of it. If East wanted a club ruff, he would make life easy for partner by underleading the spade ace. In so doing, he would make it crystal-clear that the game-setting ruff must come in clubs, not spades. The fact that East cashed the spade ace meant that he did not want a club ruff.

MONEY BURIED IN YOUR HOUSE?
Use It to Consolidate Your Debts Through CORONATION MORTGAGE CORPORATION
Take the value of your house—subtract the balance owing on your mortgage—and the resulting figure is called "home equity," or the investment you have made into your home. You can borrow against this equity to settle your debts or make a major purchase. Take up to 15 years to repay at exceptionally low interest rates — no hidden charges, no appraisal fees. Consolidate your debts now in one low monthly payment—there's no more economical way to borrow money!

TEN MILE POINT WATERFRONT
More than ever before waterfront properties are like blue-chip securities. The large Tennessee slate entrance hall leads to an enormous living and dining area where the Twindow walls face one of the finest views on the Island. The modern kitchen with fan and garburator also has its view. The Dutch door from the kitchen leads to an oversize double carport. The master's bedroom has an elegant four-piece colored bathroom en suite. Three additional bedrooms are also on sea side. Two more sets of plumbing and a magnificent family room with private patio make for ease of living. The father and older boys will have a fine hobby shop. Complete privacy, thousands of dollars of landscaping planned for minimum care make this one of the most desirable homes in the Victoria area.

UNIQUE OUTSTANDING 2800 SQ. FT. LANSDOWNE PARK
Never before on the market, the originality of this home leaves absolutely nothing to be desired. Money was of no object to the present owners, when this de luxe home was built just a couple of years ago. With so many lovely features, this ad would be much too long if I described them all, however I shall endeavor to point out a few to you. From the spacious entry hall of slate and mahogany, one ascends to a spacious living room with large fireplace and raised hearth of Italian terrazzo. W-to-W carpeting. Large dining room. Lovely senwood cabinet kitchen with built-in double oven unit, built-in dishwasher, garburator, 12-speed fan and hood, etc., etc. Lovely den with fireplace, sliding doors to sundeck. Three baths, three bedrooms. Large 18x23' family room with fireplace, sliding glass doors off to secluded patio. These are only a few of the outstanding features of this lovely home. Double carport, lovely treed lot with automatic grass sprinklers. Be the first to see this outstanding property. I know you'll want to buy. Clear title, this home may be yours for only $38,500. IF YOU ARE LOOKING FOR A not-too-old four-bedroom, two-bathroom country home, near ELK LAKE—with big trees and little trees, and some clear land (an acre in all) that could be subdivided sometime—a large separate matching garage and boat works, a full basement, automatic oil heat, living room with cheery fireplace and a separate dining room—in other words, a really nice family country home where you can bring up your children near good catfish holes and close to shady trout nests, and where they can test their mettle on a new pair of water skis—drive by 5125 SANTA CLARA AVE., at ELK LAKE. One can still keep rabbits here, not to mention ponies, bantams, Cornish game cocks or descendants of Uncle Wiggly. I personally live near this home, and would not trade our place of abode for King Farouk's villa on the Riviera. Full price and a bargain to those who know Toronto prices, $24,500. Terms. Like Father, Like Son?

New Eichmann Is Sought In Argentine Anti-Semitism

Horst Adolf Eichmann, the 27-year-old son and namesake of the former Nazi SS colonel, is being sought.

The son is hunted, not by the Israeli agents who found his father in hiding here in 1960, but by the Buenos Aires provincial police.

IN FOOTSTEPS?

Police sources said Monday they believe young Eichmann is attempting to follow in the footsteps of his father, who was hanged by Israel in 1962 for his part in Nazi Germany's extermination of six million Jews.

FIND CACHE

The Nazis escaped, but police found a cache of arms, ammunition, Nazi uniforms, swastika arm bands and flags in their shack near the Ezeiza airport on the eastern outskirts of the city.

A police spokesman said they also found a box containing $20,000 in U.S. currency.

SWORE VENGEANCE

Sources in Buenos Aires' German community said Eichmann swore in 1962 to avenge the death of his father.

Police said Eichmann, who is married to an Argentine, has not been seen either at his home in the San Martin district, or at his job in a garage, for almost two weeks.

They said no charges have been filed against Eichmann, who is wanted mainly for questioning about the participants in the gun battle and the activities of anti-Semitic groups here.

ANONYMOUS CALL

An anonymous telephone call tipped police to the Nazi meeting last week. Police said they believe the meeting was to have been a rendevous for participants in an anti-Semitic terrorist campaign.

Police said they discovered in the Nazi shack written plans for a raid on a bus scheduled to take a group of Jewish children from Buenos Aires to a summer camp.

They said they also found a list of 25 Buenos Aires business establishments owned by Jews and another list of prominent Jewish citizens here.

POST GUARDS

Police have posted guards at all the business establishments listed and at the homes of the Jewish citizens.

In the past, police have blamed the Tacuara terrorists for the murder of a Jewish child and for the abduction and torture of a teen-aged Jewish girl.

Signs reading, Death to Jews, and bearing the swastika and Nazi eagle are frequently painted on walls throughout Buenos Aires. They are signed, Tacuara.

Jewish sources have protested that police are not concentrating enough effort on tracking down Tacuara members.

INFLUENTIAL MEMBERS

Argentina once was a refuge for militarists sympathetic to the Nazis. Many former high-ranking Nazis—such as Eichmann—fled to Argentina under assumed names after the collapse of Hitler's Germany in 1945.

Eichmann's wife, Veronica, and the couple's two other sons, Klaus and Dieter, returned to Germany after his capture here.

Kirby Winner

Chinchilla Prizes Stay Here

Competing chinchilla breeders from as far south as California found their prize animals taking second place to chinchillas bred by Frank Kirby, 9190 East Saanich Road Sunday.

During the Vancouver Island Branch, National Chinchilla Breeders' Association of America championships show held in Sanscha Hall, Mr. Kirby's animals came away with championships in the light, medium and dark color classes.

Mr. Kirby also won the aggregate championship.

Hotel Thief Gets Clothes

Men's and women's clothing totalling approximately $450 in value was stolen shortly before midnight Monday from a room in the Chandler Hotel, 723 Yates.

Articles stolen included a woman's wedding dress and a man's suit. There were no indications as to how the break-in was effected.

Pickup Sought In Two Attacks

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — RCMP here are seeking a light-blue pickup truck in which two women have been attacked.

One said she was assaulted by two men. Another woman said she fled almost nude from a lone attacker in the same type vehicle.

Good Hedges Unsung

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One horticultural mystery which has always puzzled me is why some plants of questionable merit achieve almost overnight popularity for no good reason at all, while others far better in performance remain virtually unknown.

A good example of what I mean is found in Lonicera nitida, a neat but rather weakly evergreen shrub much favored for low hedges. When L. nitida first appeared on our shores some 15 years ago, everybody and his pup planted it—perhaps as a welcome change for the ubiquitous Privet hedge—and nurserymen were hard put to keep up with the demand.

Actually, its cousin, Lonicera yunnanensis, is a far better plant but is scarcely known except by a few shrub specialists. The superiority of this shrubby honeysuckle lies particularly in the greater strength of its branches, making a hedge far less liable to damage by wind or by heavy, wet snow. It is altogether more robust, yet its leaves are just as neat and box-like as those of its more successful rival, and it can be propagated by cuttings just as readily.

Another evergreen with excellent hedge-making qualities is Osmarea burkwoodii, a most attractive flowering shrub. This one is unusual in that it is one of the very few bigeneric hybrids in existence—it is a cross between two different genera, phillyrea and osmanthus—and possibly because of this, it may be looked upon by some gardeners as an unnatural freak.

It is, in fact, a very handsome shrub with shining, dark green leaves and a profusion of small, white fragrant blossoms in spring. It makes a tough, quick-growing and good-looking hedge, yet hardly anyone hereabouts grows it.

The case of the Tigridia is even more puzzling, for here is a bulb flower that seems to possess all the necessary attributes for popularity. The bulbs are cheap enough to buy, easy to grow, having an intriguing name, brilliant exotic flowers, self-supporting stems and a long-flowering season from July to October. Why, then, is the Tigridia not as popular as, say, the bearded iris?

One snag, of course, is that each individual blossom lasts only from 10 o'clock in the morning until around 4 in the afternoon, and this fleeting habit of bloom annoyed me no end when I first tried my hand at growing this exciting flower. I would leave for the office in the morning before the flowers opened, and return in the evening after they closed, and never got to see the gorgeous blooms for myself except on weekends!

There isn't any lack of bloom, though, for each stem opens a succession of flowers in much the same way as the day lily. About the only reason I can think of to account for its lack of popularity is because the spectacular polka-dotted flowers have a fragile, not-long-for-this-world appearance that suggests a fussy, difficult plant.

Actually, the Tigridia is no more difficult to grow than the gladiolus, and thrives under the same culture. The bulbs, incidentally, cost considerably less than glad bulbs, and multiply at a faster rate.

Julie Booked for Months

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Julie Andrews will star again for Marty Ransohoff in "Day of the Arrow"—after her mammoth Hawaii film that will take at least six months to make. If this film covered all of the James Michener book, it would take six years.

Because of tax matters with which I am not familiar, Elizabeth Taylor waited until Jan. 29 to take possession of her $1,000,000 for her recent Ransohoff picture with Richard Burton. During any production Elizabeth receives a huge living allowance, something like $3,000 a week—or is it a month? Anyway, it is enough to pay their bills and to support the numerous people who work and travel with them.

* * *

Aldo Ray and wife Johanna expect their second baby this month . . . Arthur Godfrey who has never met him, has been in constant communication with Nat King Cole ever since the operation and before. Godfrey underwent the same surgery seven years ago, and came through it beautifully.

If you want to know the name of the next picture in which Jane Fonda will star for Roger Vadim, it is Love. A nice short meaningful title. As Jane was saying in London last week, "I can just see the marquee, "Jane Fonda in Love. The 27-year-old Miss Fonda is taking her time about marriage with Vadim, because her own father, Henry Fonda, has been married four times. She hopes once only for herself.

People in Hollywood are still asking, where is Tony Walton, the husband of popular Julie Andrews. Well, first Tony was in New York working on the road company of Golden Boy. Now he is in London, designing sets for the new Royal Ballet. Julie cannot be with him there because of her TV commitments. But this enforced separation is causing those old and erroneous I am sure, rumors, to fly.

There are those who insist that Nick Adams' public statement on divorcing his wife, and their subsequent reconciliation, was a complete publicity stunt. I don't think so. Nick just happens to think and talk in headlines. Good space if you can do it.

* * *

Pat Boone's not so secret vice — he smokes cigars, privately, to keep his image smokeless with the teen-agers. And here I thought he had graduated. . . . Jill St. John is being mysterious about the donor of her new Renoir, but it was not Alejandro Rey who seems to have returned to the Argentine somewhat disillusioned with life in Hollywood.

* * *

Looks like Jimmy Woolf won his argument at Columbia that Honor Blackman WAS a big name before Goldfinger, and she will be the other woman in Life At the Top with Jean Simmons as the wife, which fascinating news item I printed here many moons ago. There was some talk of wanting Lana Turner for the part. But Lana is busy anyway as Madame X.

JOHN CROSBY Defends Lunch

Eat Less, Think More!

LONDON—Lord Snow — that's C. P. Snow, the novelist who wrote The Corridors of Power, the dramatist who wrote The Affair, the social thinker whose lecture, The Two Cultures and the Scientific Revolution, caused an intellectual furor, virtually the only man in England who can talk to scientists and playwrights with some hope of being understood by both, has come out against lunch.

"I suspect the ordinary business lunch is something we ought to have a careful look at," said Lord Snow, who now occupies the corridors of power himself, having been weighted down with the imposing title of Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Technology.

"It is far more wasteful of time, of food, of effort than anything the industrial world knows. It would be far better if people had simple working lunches and then got home rather earlier and devoted themselves to a bit of thinking."

Well, now that's the most debatable proposition I have heard since Copernicus advanced all that nonsense about the earth's revolving about the sun.

I have the utmost reverence for C. P. Snow as novelist, dramatist, scientist, and sociologist, but on the subject of lunch I think he's talking a la trippe. In my view, the longer the lunch, the huger the thoughts.

What's happening to the whole mythology of lunch, anyhow? The North American, the old myth went, had wheat germ on rye and a glass of milk at his desk while the Frenchman was wolfing duck a l'orange, washed down by Chateau Lafitte '50. Malarkey.

The last time I stepped into a French business office to go out to lunch with an American friend, we asked his French partner to come along. No time, said the Frenchman. So help me, the Frenchman was sitting at his desk, surrounded by account books, munching a lettuce sandwich scribbling away.

Money is getting to be the exclusive preoccupation of the French business man, edging out not only food but—mon Dieu! — sex. The trouble with the French is they don't understand joie de vivre.

Now this dangerous propaganda has spread to London where a decent saddle of lamb and a bottle of claret at lunchtime are absolutely essential to keep out the cold. A man has to keep up his strength.

Waste of time, indeed! In an automated world, the civilized waste of time is getting to be the only proper activity of mankind.

I got so exorcised over this dangerous heresy that I immediately invited Lord and Lady Snow to lunch. We'd be delighted, said Lady Snow.

That's the first step, I thought. Give him a delicious lunch — a little venison, a bottle of Rauzan-Gassies '55 . . . but then the blow fell.

A telegram. Lord Snow couldn't make it. Not because he was making an adamant stand against lunch. Quite the opposite. He had a prior lunch date. With the prime minister.

Well, I thought, they're still lunching at 10 Downing Street, anyhow. But with this government, you can't be sure of anything.

It's just possible that Lord Snow and Harold Wilson—over a meat pie, a salad, topped by a bit of stilton, all washed down by a few sips of claret — were discussing a 15 per cent surcharge on lunch. Or nationalizing something. You've got to watch these Socialists every minute . . .

STAN DELAPLANE Gorges in Paris

Eat More, Think Less!

PARIS — It has been a cold winter in Paris. Paris looks particularly cold at this time of year. The famous chestnut trees of the boulevards are bare-limbed and grey. And in the sidewalk cafes—glassed-in against the cold—the Frenchmen sit moroselyn Bundled in overcoats. Sipping milky Pernod and water. And waiting for spring to come.

Said a friend of mine at lunch: "The French are famous for losing confidence in their premiers. But de Gaulle never loses confidence in himself."

Many things have caused the downfall of French governments. Among them have been pleas to the French to drink less wine.

But if you ask me, it is not the bistro but the big lunch that lays you low for the rest of the day.

The other day I had lunch at Pierre's in the Place Gallion near the Opera.

"For the hors d'ouvres, I advise something light," said the owner. "Perhaps rillettes in the manner of Tours. Or a pate de campagne."

"For the fish, perhaps quenelles de brochet Lyonnaise au gratin. Or rouget grille with anchovy butter?"

We had couquille St. Jacques. Scallops in butter. "Simplement," said the owner. "Only butter and herbs."

"A light Muscadet with it," he said, popping the cork off the white wine and jamming the bottle into an ice bucket. "Nothing strong. One must eat lightly at lunch, eh?"

"For the entree I shall prepare mutton chops epinards en branches? Or a steak au poivre? Steak with ground pepper beaten into it."

We had the pepper steak. On the side pommes souffle, the potatoes that are cooked in deep fat, cubed and then popped back into the fat. They blow up like little balloons.

"A light Beaujolais," he said. "A Brouilly, 1949. Nothing heavy. One must be moderate at the lunch."

We had the beautiful red Brouilly between bites of peppered steak. A lovely haze settled over the table.

"Some cheese?" he said. "Very light. A Camembert and a slice of Pont L'Eveque. Followed by fruit.

I don't know what the bistro does to the French. But I know what the Parisian lunch does to me. I went back to the hotel and slept until 6:30.

It is very hard to stay away from the five-course, $5 lunch in Paris. For one thing it is so good. For another, there is nothing else to do.

All the shops close for 2½ hours at noon. Everybody goes out and eats the big lunch.

If you want to beat the big lunch," a friend told me, "you want to disappear about 11:30 in the morning. Before your friends can find you.

"Pick a small sidewalk cafe. Have coffee and read the papers. At noon, if you go in the back, you'll usually find they serve a smaller a la carte luncheon?"

"What if you can't disappear at 11:30. What if you have to work until noon?" I asked.

"Nobody has to work until noon in France," he said. "It is a mater of self-preservation. Any French employer who wants his help to work in the afternoon, throws them out to the sidewalk cafes at 11:30. Otherwise we would have an afternoon crise."

Legislative Roundup

'Too Many Live by Candle'

The dynamic society isn't very dynamic for British Columbians who only have gas lamps and candles for light, Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) said in the House Tuesday.

"I must say what a shame it is for so many people to be still without power in a province that is going ahead so fast," he said.

Mr. Shelford said there should be no more cuts in power rates until all the rural areas of the province are served with electricity. If the present policy of 2½ or three customers per mile isn't changed, this could take 100 years, he said.

Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) told the House Premier Bennett's increase from $23,900 to $28,000 a year ago was long overdue. This still meant Mr. Bennett was only getting as much as a third class baseball player.

"He's no Babe Ruth," said Gordon Gibson (L—North Vancouver).

Premier Bennett had the last word, though. He claimed the bulk of the increase would go to Ottawa and so far as he was concerned "it's a sacrifice play."

Cyril Shelford took issue with a Colonist editorial which said members only work about six weeks for their money which is to be increased from $6,400 to $8,000.

"Whoever wrote this editorial should take a trip around my riding and see how easy it is," he said.

Last year he was away from home Jan. 9 to May 28, with the exception of nine days. During this time he made nine trips to Vancouver and attended gasoline and pulp hearings in Kitimat, Prince Rupert and Smithers.

Dave Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) wants to make it easier for B.C. housewives to compare prices when shopping for groceries.

He introduced a bill in the legislature Tuesday that would require all foods and household items to be listed at the selling price per ounce.

Packages and boxes on supermarket shelves now come in an endless variety of sizes, said Mr. Barrett, this only served to confuse the housewife when trying to compare prices.

The government majority on the legislature's welfare committee ruled out of order an opposition attempt to obtain direction from the legislature on work it might do during the current session.

The action led David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) to predict that the committee will do no work this year and complain that Tuesday's meeting was illegal.

A meeting of the committee last week tabled the motion seeking the House direction. No advance notice of the second meeting was given by chairman William Speare (SC—Cariboo), who told reporters he did not consider notice necessary.

Hunter Vogel (SC—Delta) called for creation of a North American common market.

Mr. Vogel said the concept of empire trade is "an unsound and unrealizeable dream."

"We overlooked the fact that too many of us—Canada, Australia and New Zealand, for instance — were seeking the same thing, a market for cereal grains, meat and dairy products."

Crash Victim Thrown, Pushed

An elderly woman who was struck by a car while crossing Douglas Street at Cloverdale was thrown into the air, then pushed along the road, a coroner's jury was told Tuesday.

The inquest was being held in the death of Mrs. Margaret Barber, 75, of 554 Dupplin. She was hit by a car Feb. 3 and died three hours later in St. Joseph's Hospital.

"I thought the car was going to miss her," said Mrs. Judy Edwards, 1431 St. Patrick, a passenger in a car waiting for the light on Douglas Street.

"I saw her hit. She went up in the air, not too high. The car seemed to push her," said Mrs. Edwards.

She said the car appeared to be travelling slowly. She saw what looked like letters flying in the air.

Mrs. Barber died of haemorrhages caused by fractures of the skull, the jury was told by St. Joseph's Hospital pathologist Dr. John Lynch.

SAW NO ONE

Driver of the car that struck Mrs. Barber said he had not seen anyone crossing the street as he went to make a left turn onto Douglas.

"It appeared to me the lady stepped right in front of the car," said Sidney Coward, 986 Ambassador, who gave his testimony under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act and the B.C. Evidence Act.

Mr. Coward was on his way to the main post office downtown to buy some stamps when the accident occurred.

OVER TO THURSDAY

Saanich Const. Joseph Ferguson said Mrs. Barber was found lying 28 feet south of the crosswalk.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre adjourned the inquest until 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Saanich courtroom.

Rites Slated Friday For Frank Paulding

Funeral services will be at 3:30 p.m. Friday for Frank Paulding of 370 Foul Bay Road.

Born in Bolton, Lancashire, England, 83 years ago, Mr. Paulding came in Victoria in 1932.

He served with the YMCA 30 years, and was a director of the Community Chest and Red Cross, an elder of Metropolitan United Church and a member of the Victoria Kiwanis Club.

In 1946 he started the Frank Paulding Institute of Public Speaking and was famed from coast to coast as a speaker.

He is survived by his son Harold in Victoria; four brothers, James of Victoria, Stephen and Walter of Vancouver, Ernest of Duncan; two sisters, Mrs. L. Crossley of Sidney and Mrs. D. Nilson of Nanaimo and relatives in England.

Services will be in McCall Bros. Floral Chapel, Rev. Albert King officiating.

Car Struck By Cyclist, 7

A young cyclist who struck the side of a moving car while eating a licorice stick on Quadra near Greenridge Crescent was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday.

Phillip Archer, 7, of 3954 Tulsa, was in satisfactory condition Tuesday night.

Early Teacher Honored

Apple Years Too Late

By CHARLES LA VERTU

Fred Oak took an apple to the teacher Tuesday but it was too late to help him pass.

Mr. Oak is 54. The teacher was 72-year-old Miss Gladys Ledingham.

The occasion was the 50th anniversary of the Craigflower Parent-Teacher Association and the symbolic apple was presented to Miss Ledingham for teaching at Craigflower school from 1914 to 1918. Mr. Oak was a Craigflower pupil in 1921.

She was at Craigflower until 1918 when she changed and taught in the Cloverdale, Cedar Hill and Sir James Douglas schools. She retired in 1951.

Other guests of honor were Joan Lorimer and Mrs. C. W. Davis, both daughters of the late Elsie Lorimer, founder of the Craigflower PTA, first in Western Canada.

Past presidents of the PTA attending the ceremonies were, Mrs. Ruby Duplain, 1947-48; Mrs. Ada Feldon, 1949-50; Mrs. Phyllis Caddell, 1951-52; Mrs. Ann Gray, 1955-56; Frank Tether, 1957-58; Mrs. Brenda Cottill, 1959-61 and Mrs. Mary Sheppard, 1962-64.

Runs Start Sunday

Victoria, Port Hardy Linked by Bus Soon

Victoria will be linked to Port Hardy by bus starting Sunday, providing the Public Utilities Commission approves, general manager G. Conway Parrott of Vancouver Island Coach Lines announced Tuesday.

He said the 197-mile service which will more than double Coach Lines' route-miles on the Island also awaits expected authorization from various logging companies whose private roads will be used.

7½-HOUR RUN

Mr. Parrott said the 7½-hour run to Port Hardy from Campbell River, including a 30-minute lunch stop at Vernon, will stop at Vernon, Woss, Nimpkish, Kokish, Beaver Cove and Port McNeill.

Coal Harbor will be included upon request of residents.

The route will swing southwest from Campbell River over government road, through Elk River Timber Co. property to the Tahsis Road townsite junction and north over logging roads maintained by Canadian Forest Products, Crown Zellerbach and Rayonier.

2:15 DEPARTURES

Northbound service will leave Campbell River at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, reaching Port Hardy at 9:45.

Southbound runs will leave at 8 a.m. Monday and Wednesday and arrive at 3:30 p.m.

One-way through fares from Port Hardy will be $21.90 to Victoria and $18.90 to Vancouver.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Word War Flares

CHINA HOT, RUSSIA COOL

TOKYO (UPI)—China warned the United States today that the Johnson administration will not be able to control "the time, place and scale of the war" in South Viet Nam if it expands the war. "We mean what we say," the Peking regime warned.

The Soviet Union, however, took a much more conciliatory line, saying early today that it was in favor of "the establishment of normal relations" with the United States.

The Soviet statement, contained in an editorial in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, came hours after U.S. ambassador Foy D. Kohler complained that there was inadequate protection of the U.S. Embassy by Russian police during student demonstrations.

The Soviet leaders are in favor of the "establishment of normal relations with the U.S. and their improvement," Pravda said.

The Peking statement, an editorial in the official Peking People's Daily newspaper, was monitored in a broadcast which said:

"How far the Johnson administration will go on the road of expanding the war in Indo-China is a question which the administration can decide for itself.

"But once U.S. imperialism embarks on this road of adventure, it would be impossible for it, as a belligerent, to control and decide at will the time, place and scale of the war."

China, which Tuesday warned that its armed forces were waiting in "battle array" to counter any United States invasion of North Viet Nam, said today Peking and the "whole socialist camp" would consider an invasion of North Viet Nam as an invasion on China itself.

"If U.S. imperialism is bent on spreading the war flames and imposing war on us, then we shall have no alternative but to go along with it to the very end."

The Chinese warned that the "whole of Asia would be aflame with the revolutionary fire in which you (the United States) will be so burnt to death that not even your ashes would be traceable."

If Phony Letter Probed

Author Likely Witness

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday if the Dorion inquiry decides to investigate the phony Premier Bennett letter in connection with the Stonehill immigration case he expects the true author to be called to testify.

The attorney-general disclosed that he received a letter from Prime Minister Pearson in which there appeared to be "no reservations" about terms of reference of the Dorion inquiry being wide enough to encompass the phony letter.

NO INDICATION

In the letter Mr. Pearson was "both cordial and correct," said Mr. Bonner, but it gave no indication that the prime minister had communicated with the commission.

Mr. Bonner said he didn't know what prompted lawyers at Tuesday's hearings in Ottawa to request the Dorion commission to call witnesses in connection with the case of millionaire promoter Harry Stonehill, who was refused landed immigrant status in Canada.

OTHER WITNESSES

The possible witnesses named in Ottawa news reports were Hal Dornan, policy assistant to the prime minister, Vancouver publicist Al Williamson, former immigration aide Raymond Denis and Mr. Stonehill.

Mr. Bonner last week announced a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be the premier's was completely phony and added that RCMP had learned the identity of the true author in Vancouver. He did not identify the author.

Mr. Pearson has given no indication of what further action the federal government plans, said Mr. Bonner.

"I imagine, however, that if the Dorion commission gets into this it will seek to hear the author of the letter," he said.

Mr. Bonner said he considered the latest developments meant in effect that the phony letter was already being considered by the Dorion inquiry.

Premier Bennett also disclosed yesterday that he received a telegram from the prime minister in reply to his phone calls last week. He refused to divulge what the contents of the wire were.

Stonehill Next Topic?

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a second aide to Prime Minister Pearson being called before the Dorion inquiry was raised Tuesday, 20th day of the commission's hearings.

Yves Fortier, counsel for Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, proposed Hal Dornan, Mr. Pearson's speech-writer, and other principals in the Harry Stonehill immigration case be summoned as witnesses.

The request, on which Chief Justice Frederic Dorion reserved decision, came soon after Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, former parliamentary secretary to Mr. Pearson, completed his testimony.

Though Mr. Pearson has said Mr. Rouleau resigned Nov. 24 as his parliamentary secretary, Mr. Rouleau insisted twice

'It May Take Bulldozer, But B.C. Will Get Bank'

TORONTO (CP)—B.C. Highways Minister Philip Gaglardi said Tuesday afternoon speaking to the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, that the province has not given up plans for its own bank.

"We never abandon any good plan. If they stop us one way, we'll get it by another."

In his speech, Mr. Gaglardi attacked Canadian senators for blocking B.C.'s bid for a bank.

"Some of those moss-backed senators up there don't know anything. But don't you worry. We'll get it if we have to take a bulldozer to get it going."

Battles Flare At U.S. Base

SAIGON (AP)—Major engagements were reported at two points near the strategic air base at Da Nang in South Viet Nam Tuesday, after a battle 50 miles east of Saigon cost the life of one American.

Among those wounded Tuesday was the son of the deputy commander of the U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

As South Vietnamese troops and the Communist Viet Cong clashed near Da Nang, troops at the base began throwing up sandbags around a newly installed battery of U.S. Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

FEAR ONSLAUGHT

Authorities feared a Viet Cong onslaught on Da Nang, cornerstone of U.S. air operations against Communist strongholds in Laos and North Viet Nam. The base is 80 miles south of the North Vietnamese border and 380 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese government troops made a helicopter attack on one Viet Cong force near the base and caught another group of about 200 out in the open. No detailed results were available.

'STRIKE HARD'

Communist guerrillas pressed the attack throughout the country in a bloody counter-thrust to U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam. A Hanoi broadcast heard in Tokyo urged the Viet Cong to "strike hard, very hard at the enemy on all battlefields."

Asians Lead Massive Protests

From CP, Reuters

Hundreds of Asian university students staged an angry demonstration in front of the United States Embassy in Moscow Wednesday breaking at least 140 windows and defacing the nine-storey structure with ink.

In Peking the New China news agency said 2,250,000 Chinese turned out in huge demonstrations against the U.S. in Peking, Shanghai, Canton and Nanking.

The Moscow demonstration, carefully organized and led by agitators who barked out directions to the students through loudspeakers, was in protest against American air strikes on North Vietnamese military installations.

Moscow police held a U.S.

Nanaimo Sewer Job

Cave-In Kills Worker

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — A 30-year-old Nanaimo district man died Tuesday afternoon not far from his home when a 15-foot section of a seven-foot-deep sewer trench caved in.

Leroy Morgan of Departure Bay Road, the father of two children, was injured fatally when buried for several minutes while working between Highland Boulevard and Marlborough Crescent in the upper Departure Bay area.

He was helping pipelayer Frank Bohati, 615 Sterling, when foreman Pat Fagan noticed the walls were giving way and yelled a warning.

Mr. Bohati jumped clear, but Mr. Morgan, co-workers said, went the wrong way.

The others soon uncovered Mr. Morgan's head.

An Island Ambulance arrived within minutes, and Dr. John Dixon and an ambulance attendant administered oxygen from a first-aid kit the Ledingham Construction Co. had on hand.

They also tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before taking Mr. Morgan to Nanaimo hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The company has about half a dozen crews working in the area under a $465,000 sewerage project bylaw approved by voters last spring.

Coroner Russell Inkster said an inquest will open Thursday.

Shvetz Pulls Ambush That Finishes Blades

By JIM TANG

It was 8-2 when it was over but it was that old deerslayer, Bill Shvetz, who ambushed Los Angeles Blades at Memorial Arena last night and set up the victory which gave Victoria Maple Leafs a four-point grip on their fourth-place standing in the Western Hockey League.

Desperate after their 4-11-1 record this year had steadily worsened their playoff situation, the Blades came out hitting. They yielded a power-play goal, got it back before the first period was over and an edgy game was hanging in the balance when Shvetz laid his ambush as the Blades tried to go ahead while Sandy Hucul sat out a hooking penalty early in the second period.

The Blades were trying to get organized for another attack from their own zone when Shvetz slid unobtrusively across the blue line using a Los Angeles defenceman as a screen.

He did his stalking so well that Gordie Haworth did not notice him and when the Los Angeles centre made the pass-out Shvetz was anticipating, the Leaf defenceman stepped from behind cover and rifled the puck past Jack McCartan with a first-timer Bobby Hull would have envied.

That did in the Blades. Just 61 seconds later, Milan Marcetta stickhandled McCartan down and tucked the puck in from the side after being put away with a clever through pass from Fred Hucul.

From there, things just went from bad to worse for the Blades, who never quit trying but couldn't get anything working right against the fine checking performance of the well-rested Leafs, in their first competitive action in nine days.

Before the second period was over Larry Keenan had regained a tie, with Charlie Burns, for the league's goal-scoring lead when he unexpectedly got a chance for his 28th scoring shot.

Evading a well-intentioned check in front of the Los Angeles blue line, Keenan pushed the puck directly to Harley Hodgson, who was in control when Keenan came around his would-be checker. But Hodgson got tangled up in his own feet, fell to the ice and Keenan swooped in to pick up the puck again with a clear path to the goal.

And that was the way it went for the Blades, who saw McCartan stoop for four more pucks behind him in the third period in a Victoria parade interrupted momentarily by Willie O'Ree's second soft goal of the night.

PROPER FINISH

Ed Mazur, whose checking caused the Blades to move Howie Young from right to left wing after a couple of first-period shifts, rifled in three successive goals and Lou Jankowski wrote the proper finish for the demoralized visitors when Fred Hucul's wide shot caromed off him and behind McCartan for his 23rd goal.

"I told you," an immensely-pleased Rudy Pilous said after the game.

HE WAS RIGHT

"They're ready," he said of his players, and he was never more right. Although the Blades might commiserate with themselves over some bad breaks here and there, an alert Victoria club took advantage of them—and forced most of them with steady harrassment.

Standout performances were there in number for a team which paid no attention to the sticky ice caused by the breakdown of the ice-surfacing machine and the continued weird penalty interpretations of referee Ron Wicks, a three-time loser as far as Victoria fans are concerned.

SOME STANDOUTS

Fred Hucul was one standout, his thoughtful passes setting up four goals. Keenan, an outstanding checker, had three assists to go with his goal and Al Millar really earned himself a shutout. And, of course, there were Shvetz and Mazur — and quite a number of others.

"We'll have to do it ourselves," manager Buck Houle told a luncheon meeting before the game as he reported an empty bag after a trip to Toronto. It looked last night as if "we" could do it.

Lions' Profit Hits $209,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions, who set attendance records last year on the way to winning their first Grey Cup, Tuesday reported a profit of $209,000.

More than $81,000 of the Lions' profit was given to other clubs in the Western Football Conference under the gate equalization agreement.

Another $48,000 went toward development of minor football and to a fund for a junior sports stadium here, the club said.

The remainder left the Lions with an accumulated surplus of $383,599.

The club took in $926,464 last season while spending $717,455 on players, rental and other expenses, not including the gate equalization payment or minor football development.

Hull Can't Skate

Two Games For Certain

CHICAGO (AP)—Scoring ace Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks has been ruled out of the National Hockey League games with Detroit this week because of a knee injury that is slow in responding to treatment.

Hull, who has seldom let injuries keep him off the ice, insisted he would work out with the Hawks on Chicago Stadium ice Tuesday.

Instead, he was given another series of whirlpool treatments and ordered to keep off the ice.

Ligaments in Hull's right knee were torn Saturday in a game at Toronto. The team physician said healing processes for this type of injury are unpredictable.

General manager Tommy Ivan said the injury is too tricky to gamble with.

"Sure we'd like to have him back as soon as possible," he said. "But you can't tell about a knee injury. If he is rushed back too fast, the damage could become greater than it is."

Hull appeared a cinch to break the league season record of 50 goals he shares with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion, but because of a scoring slump and the injury the record is in doubt. He currently has 38 goals.

Don't Remind Her

Canada's Next Barbara Ann?

CALGARY (CP) — Petra Burka of Toronto has an excellent chance to become the first Canadian since 1948 to become a world women's figure skating champion — but she doesn't like to be reminded of it.

Miss Burka, Canada's woman athlete of the year in 1964, was at the peak of her form Saturday as she captured her second successive Canadian women's title. The victory placed her on Canadian teams selected to compete at world and North American title meets in the United States within the next month.

Sjoukje Dijkstra of Holland, 1964 world champion, has become a professional, leaving Miss Burka, an 18-year-old high school sturent, among the front rank of contenders.

Petra Practices
... Mother watches

Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa last won a world figure skating championship for Canada in 1948.

"I don't like it when people say I should win this year now that Sjoukje's out," she said in an interview. "If I'm satisfied I've skated well, I'll be happy regardless of where I place."

She is a powerful, dramatic skater with a routine that includes 10 double jumps in four minutes, including the difficult double axel, in which she leaps a backward, turns twice in the air and lands backward.

Miss Burka, five feet, three inches tall, is a brunette. She was born in Holland of Czech and Dutch parentage, came to Canada at four and laced on her first skates three years later.

HER TITLES

At 12, she was the junior women's champion of central Ontario. She won the Ontario junior women's competition in 1961, was runner-up in the Canadian senior championships in 1962 and runner-up in the Canadian and North American meets in 1963.

She was a member of the Canadian world team in 1962-63-64.

TOP FREE SKATER

She won both the compulsory figures and free-skating sections as she captured the 1965 Canadian title and one judge gave her a perfect six points for artistic merit in free-skating.

She says she has made no decision whether to attempt professional skating eventually.

Mrs. Serjeant In 'Must' Game

Mrs. Cmolik has a chance to take the title today when she goes against a Campbell River rink led by Mrs. Frankie Serjeant.

Mrs. Serjeant's rink has a 2-1 won-loss record. Mrs. Cmolik has three wins in the round-robin bonspiel.

Should Mrs. Serjeant win this morning it will force a final game this afternoon.

In another game this morning, Bev Reber's Whitehorse rink goes against Flo Gustafson of Prince George to determine a runner-up. Also in contention for runner-up is Mrs. Isobel Morris' rink from Trail. Mrs. Morris has the bye this morning.

Fourth draw results:
Gustafson 8, Serjeant 5; Cmolik 15, Morris 8.

Hunting Permit Fees For All B.C. People

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Tuesday he doesn't agree that all revenue from hunting licences should go directly into game management in B.C.

Wildlife is a tremendous resource in this province, the minister told the legislature, but like the forests and the oil and gas reserves it belongs to all the people.

If, as some hunters suggest, all revenues from hunting licences went into management and harvesting of game, then it would be equally logical to say that all revenues from the forest industry should be ploughed back into the forests, Mr. Kiernan said.

Canadians Club West Germans

WINNIPEG (CP)—Aided by sharp close-in passing, Canada swamped the touring West German Fuessen club 9-1 in an international hockey exhibition here Tuesday night before a crowd of 4,000.

The loss brought the West German tour record to three wins, three losses and three ties.

Defenceman Hansjorg Nagel was credited with the single German goal when the puck slid into the net past goaltender Don Collins from a scramble.

The Germans, winners of their home country's First Division for the past three years, meet the Calgary Spurs in Calgary tonight.

Several of the players on both clubs will meet again at the world championships at Tampere, Finland, March 4-14.

Twelve players on the Fuessen club are likely to make the national team and ten on the Canadian roster are slated to play in the championships.

Burnaby Talks Up Sports Complex

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Plans for a mammoth sports complex which would include a 40,000-seat football stadium, a 13,000 ice centre, hockey rink and basketball stadium, all within a one-section area, were revealed by Reeve Alan Emmott of nearby Burnaby Tuesday.

The complex would cost $6,000,000 and the football stadium would feature 40,000 seats with unobstructed view, all between the goal lines.

The reeve said success of the project would depend heavily on contributions from both the federal and provincial governments.

"If $100 million can be spent in Montreal in 1967, a few million dollars can be spent here," Reeve Emmott said. He said the remainder of the money would be raised by the establishment "of a responsible society to promote the sale of debentures or bonds."

"No representation will be made for funds at a municipal level," the reeve told UPI. "The municipality will have done its part by either donating or leasing the land on a long term basis."

Emmott said he had already requested meetings with B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan. He said he was confident of getting financial aid from both levels of government.

The project would mark the 1966 centennial of the joining of Vancouver Island with mainland British Columbia.

"We hope to get this thing off the ground so it will be completed in time for the '66 centenary," Emmott said.

He refuted reports that $2 million of the $6 million would come from the Grey Cup champion B.C. Lions football club. The Lions have a year left to play at the 36,000-seat Empire Stadium.

"We have not made a submission to the Lions as yet," Emmott said. "But we certainly will be, as we want to get this going by 1966 and they will be signing a new park lease at that time."

Vancouver Mayor William Rathie, when advised of the Burnaby project, scoffed at the plan.

Rathie, whose plan to build the "Stafford Smythe" $8 million coliseum in downtown Vancouver was scuttled by the city's ratepayers in last December's municipal elections, said, "What project? Why that's just an announcement."

Intermunicipal Committee

Twin Cities Tackle Transit Crisis

PORT ALBERNI — The intermunicipal committee of the Twin Cities has been asked to try to find a solution which will keep the cities' urban transit service operating after March 1.

The request follows a meeting Monday night of city council which also took formal action toward amalgamation.

12-YEAR LOSS

The Tyee Bus Co., which has operated the intercity bus system for more than 12 years at a loss, will attend the intermunicipal meeting. The committee has been asked to report to a closed meeting of Port council Monday.

Clerk-comptroller H. D. Thain told council the Municipal Act forbids councils from making loans or granting privileges to private firms.

SEVERAL MONTHS

He said financial aid can be given only through procedure, which may take several months to complete.

Tyee president James Bates and Mr. Thain said a meeting with Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell showed this procedure:

- City councils and the company must agree on terms of a subsidy and a franchise.
- A bylaw granting both must receive approval of 60 per cent of owner-electors.

Tyee has suggested a $22,000 annual subsidy — which would not provide a profit, a $75,000 municipal takeover or abandonment of the service.

20 CENTS A MILE

The firm specifically asks for a subsidy of 20 cents a mile to allow continued operation and cover a 10 per cent boost in "substandard" wages.

Mr. Bates said charter services have partially subsidized the cities' routes, but the company could not have carried on for six months had it not been made up of owner-operators.

NO OVERTIME PAY

He said the company does not pay overtime or holiday pay.

The men had invested in the firm and stuck around, hoping they would not lose their investment and some day might even make a profit.

Mr. Bates said that, if no agreement is reached with the councils, he and his partners might borrow money as individuals to buy $4,000 worth of licence plates and then gamble a plebiscite will pass.

He said he could not speak for his partners but:

"After all, we've gambled for going on 13 years."

LETTERS PATENT

Council passed a motion accepting letters patent for the municipality of Port Alberni which will be born Oct. 28, 1967.

The date is four days earlier than planned originally because it will allow a weekend to handle mechanical details.

Both city councils agreed Monday to join in establishing a joint advisory planning committee.

Both were asked to submit as soon as possible plans and needs for new buildings and other facilities to the amalgamation planning group.

$21,000 FOR SNOW

General superintendent Len Crowshaw reported the December-January snow removal bill was $21,000.

He said frost damage is pretty well confined to streets surfaced before 1950, most of which are due for reconstruction in the near future.

WILL INVESTIGATE

He said the incident occurred Sunday morning but did not elaborate.

Heavier Runoffs In South Island

Spring runoffs in southern Island rivers will be faster and deeper than they have been in several years, the provincial water resources service said Tuesday in the first of six early year snow-survey bulletins.

The bulletin says the runoff may be greatest in the Shawnigan area. Water totals in other Island areas were described as average or below average.

Weapon Case

Mountie Quitting Brings Acquittal

COURTENAY — The fact that a Mountie has left the force has caused dismissal by Judge L. A. Hanna in county court of a charge of unlawful possession of an offensive weapon.

Alexander John Doleman was charged following a shooting incident in Cumberland last Oct. 3 when Lorne Wallace Wellman fired at Doleman, and missed.

BAD FEELING

Evidence indicated bad feeling between the two men. This apparently came about when Mrs. Wellman failed to come home the previous night.

After Wellman fired the shot, Doleman was escorted home by RCMP and advised to remain there.

However, court was told, he returned to the Wellman house with a rifle which police later seized.

A Cumberland Mountie said the rifle produced in court was similar to the one taken from Doleman.

But no positive identification could be made as Const. Terry Conklin, who marked the rifle for identification, has since left the force.

JUDGE SATISFIED

The judge said he was satisfied Doleman had a rifle in his possession, but insufficient evidence had been produced to prove it was dangerous to the public.

Wellman recently received a 12-month suspended sentence on a similar charge in connection with the shooting incident.

School Budget Up 15 Per Cent

Cowichan Pleads for Help

DUNCAN — North Cowichan council members and the Cowichan district school board decided Tuesday night to ask the provincial government for help in solving the "imperative" problems of rising school costs.

The action came out of a meeting on the 1965 district schools budget to which Duncan was also invited but did not attend.

COPIES TO MLAs

A telegram will be sent to Premier and Finance Minister Bennett and Education Minister Peterson, with copies going to district MLAs Robert Strachan and Herbert Breach.

It asks for "an upward revision" in the salary grant and other school aid because of "increases beyond local control."

NUMBER OF YEARS

The telegram says increases in teachers' salaries and other operating costs "during the number of years" since aid factors were "brought up to date makes this action imperative."

The 1965 budget for the Cowichan district is estimated at $2,254,115. That figure is approximately $340,822 higher than last year, or about 15 per cent.

The North Cowichan councillors asked the board to reconsider its decision to put in the 1965 budget all of the district's $70,000 share for a vocational wing at Cowichan Senior Secondary School.

They suggested the $70,000 figure be spread over two years.

Biggest budget increase is 16.77 per cent for instruction, including teachers' salaries, to $1,345,388. Only decrease is 8.2 per cent in auxiliary services, to $16,352.

Village Will Act Against Vandal

LAKE COWICHAN — The village council decided Tuesday night to make an example of a youth caught while vandals were attacking cement blocks newly laid for four new village garbage containers.

Works foreman Vic Palmer said his crew needed four hours Monday to do the 90-minute job. Three containers had to be redone three times and the other four times.

SHOULD DECIDE

He said he took the young offender to the police station but felt council should decide about charges.

Commissioner G. K. Cessford said, "This sort of thing is costing the village money and something should be done now," and council approved the necessary steps for prosecution.

POWER METER

Village clerk W. A. Chappell disclosed other vandals tore a power meter from the wall at Centennial Park, removed its insides and demolished the meter. It will be reconnected later.

Mr. Chappell said a meter official told him removal of the inside of a meter could mean electrocution.

An IWA representative said an agreement between four outside workers and the village council was "one of the quickest agreements on record."

They recently requested a 25-cent wage increase, four weeks' holiday after 10 years, double time for overtime, salary payment every second Friday and $50 for the first week of sick leave.

MEN ACCEPTED

Council offered 15 cents more, four weeks' holiday after 15 years, double time on Sunday, salary payment twice a month and $50 for the first week providing sick leave lasts more than three weeks. The men accepted.

Commissioner Nelson Laforge, named delegate to the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum committee, said the committee will meet in Duncan Tuesday.

Probation officer Pat Wheatley won permission to use the village hall from 3 to 6 p.m. Thursdays to interview parents.

Guide Wins Top Award

Gold cord, highest award which can be given to Girl Guide, has been won by 15-year-old Janice Hurford of First Nanaimo Guide Company. To obtain prized award, she had to win all 28 proficiency badges and perform four commissions. Latter were helper at Guide supper, secretary for commissioner, clerical work for TB check, and speech on Japan.—(Lea Englefield)

Buses to Link Island Tips Next Sunday

Victoria will be linked to Port Hardy by bus starting Sunday, providing the Public Utilities Commission approves, general manager G. Conway Parrott of Vancouver Island Coach Lines announced Tuesday.

He said the 197-mile service which will more than double Coach Lines' route-miles on the Island also awaits expected authorization from various logging companies whose private roads will be used.

7½-HOUR RUN

Mr. Parrott said the 7½-hour run to Port Hardy from Campbell River, including a 30-minute lunch stop at Vernon, will stop at Vernon, Woss, Nimpkish, Kokish, Beaver Cove and Port McNeill.

Coal Harbor will be included upon request of residents.

The route will swing southwest from Campbell River over government road, through Elk River Timber Co. property to the Tahsis Road townsite junction and north over logging roads maintained by Canadian Forest Products, Crown Zellerbach and Rayonier.

2:15 DEPARTURES

Northbound service will leave Campbell River at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, reaching Port Hardy at 9:45.

Southbound runs will leave at 8 a.m. Monday and Wednesday and arrive at 3:30 p.m.

One-way through fares from Port Hardy will be $21.90 to Victoria and $18.90 to Vancouver.

50 Merchants Talk About Organizing

NANAIMO — More than 50 downtown merchants held a 90-minute closed meeting Tuesday morning to discuss the possibility of forming a downtown businessmen's association.

They also discussed store hours, parking, collective promotion, traffic control, sales training, shoplifting, the Gordon Street development project and new shopping centres going up outside the city.

DECLINES COMMENT

Meeting organizer Haig Burns later declined to comment on the meeting.

He said only that the merchants will meet again next week to vote on whether to form an association or join the better business bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. Bureau members will attend the meeting.

Mr. Burns would not say whether the merchants favored six-day shopping.

SPLIT ON ISSUE

Other merchants also declined comment, although it is known the merchants are split on the issue.

City council's approval of six-day shopping for three building-supply firms set off the merchants' meeting.

The Bard Coming To Albernis

PORT ALBERNI — Shakespeare will finally come to the Alberni Valley next week.

The Alberni District Senior Secondary music and drama society will give two performances of Macbeth in the school auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday, and producer David Lord says he believes it will be the first Shakespearean drama ever performed in the valley.

Mr. Lord teaches English and social studies, and his cast is led by Randy Rigeti, Linda Jessen, Phillip Wallbank, Denis St. Claire, Robert Danielsen, Llewellyn Earl, Don Little and Monty Morran.

Board Backs Dismissal Of Student

COURTENAY — The dismissal of a 16-year-old Courtenay Senior Secondary School student who refused to take punishment was ratified Monday night by the Courtenay district's school board.

In other matters, the board struggled through two confusing votes and still failed to decide the fate of a 1,264-square-foot piece of land.

Trustees were told the boy is a fair student but does not wish to stay in school. He was to be strapped but refused to take the punishment and the board was asked to approve the school's action in dismissing the student.

OTHER AVENUES

The board asked district superintendent C. E. Ritchie what other avenues of education are open to the student. If he could attend school in another district and if he could return here should have have a change of heart.

Assured by Mr. Ritchie the boy could do either, the board ratified the dismissal.

The problem of the land, owned by the school board, came before city council recently when R. Harrison asked the city to straighten Seventh Street before starting the sidewalk program.

EDGE OF SIDEWALK

He said the road in front of his home takes a sharp jog and his home will be sitting on the edge of the sidewalk when it is built.

The school board said it would be willing to part with the land but said compensation would be required.

Trustees split over whether a motion should mention a required price and a motion to notify city council the property could be bought, with no price mentioned, ended in a tie.

After more discussion, the vote was taken again and passed. Only Len Avent voted no, pointing out the addition to the Harrison lot would greatly increase its value.

Mr. Ritchie then told the board a tie vote such as the first motion received means automatic defeat for the motion. The trustees finally decided to tell council the land is available and wait for a suggested price.

BID ACCEPTED

Another decision was to buy W. G. Lamb's home immediately behind the school board office, but the home may be rented until the board needs it. The property cost $19,900.

Trustees accepted E. Toronitz' bid of $1,257 for sale and removal of another home on school board land.

Officials announced the senior high addition is ready for use, three months late, and the education department will be asked for permission to call tenders on the Royston activity room and a four-room school at Comox.

EXPLOSION UNLIKELY

An insurance firm proposed boiler explosion coverage at $200 or $300 a year but trustees learned heating engineers recommended against such insurance and instead suggested supervision by a heating consultant.

The board felt a boiler explosion was unlikely and the maintenance staff and a yearly check should cover the problem, but agreed to investigate the cost of a heating consultant.

Centennial Proposal

A 13-Month Year?

PORT ALBERNI — The Twin Cities and Sproat Lake rural area will join in 1967 centennial projects and celebrations, while Beaver Creek will join in the celebrations but go it alone on a permanent project.

This announcement was made Tuesday by Alberni Valley centennial committee chairman William Russell, who also disclosed the committee will place a locally-designed calendar before the provincial and national committees.

He said these developments occurred at a valley committee meeting this week when Cherry Creek decided to act independently in both project and celebrations.

The meeting chose a fir tree centred in a diamond, designed by Mrs. R. D. Barrett, as the committee's symbol.

It was agreed to ask for 1967 visits by the Confederation Train and the RCMP musical ride.

Port Alberni city purchasing agent David Russell designed the calendar which the committee will suggest for adoption as a centennial project to begin calendar reform on a national or international basis.

SIMPLER SYSTEM

He said his simplified system will make days, weeks and months conform and provides a 13th month called Centena.

He said his calendar will have a built-in conversion of dates to coincide with the Gregorian calendar and disclosed he has obtained a Canada copyright.

Ladysmith Man Convicted

NANAIMO — A Ladysmith man was convicted by Judge Arnold Hanna in county court Tuesday of indecent assault on a married woman July 30.

Barry Wayne Anderson will appear Friday for sentence. Christopher Carmichael, also of Ladysmith, will appear for trial Feb. 18 on a similar charge in the same case.

New Meeting

Transit Fight Grows

COBBLE HILL — The five-member committee formed recently to fight for adequate bus transportation in the Cobble Hill-Mill Bay area decided Tuesday to call a second public meeting to form future plans.

George Bonner, chairman of the committee, said the meeting has been set tentatively for Feb. 17 in the Cobble Hill community hall.

NOT HEARD YET

He also announced the Public Utilities Commission has suggested Vancouver Island Coach Lines officials meet the committee at Cobble Hill, but the committee has not yet heard from the bus company.

Mr. Bonner's committee last week sent an eight-point brief on district bus transportation to the PUC.

DEFINITE COMMENT

The chairman said he sent a telegram Monday morning to the PUC asking for definite comment on the brief.

The reply said Coach Lines "is appraised of your submission and it is before the company now," and suggested the Coach Lines committee meeting to discuss the brief.

Support for the brief was voiced Monday night by the Mill Bay Community League.

Hospital Area Closer In Albernis

PORT ALBERNI — A meeting will be held early in March to begin organization of a hospital district, Ald. Howard McLean, president of the West Coast General Hospital Board, announced Tuesday.

Formation of the district will grow out of local and provincial government plans which solved the long impasse over changes at the hospital.

Ald. McLean said the board has been studying architects' sketch plans for the proposed pediatric and maternity wards as well as other changes in the present building, but has not yet received plans for the long-term nursing unit. These plans are expected soon.

Ladysmith

Charter Group Chosen

LADYSMITH — The first two readings were given by town council Monday night to the bylaw which will set up Ladysmith's first advisory planning commission.

Members of the commission will be John MacNaughton, Beatty Davis, Robert Erskine, V. H. McMahon and Jack Ware.

Their first meeting will be with the town council and the Ladysmith recreation commission next Monday to hear town planner J. Maitland Carter of Vancouver explain his proposals on development of the Parkway area.

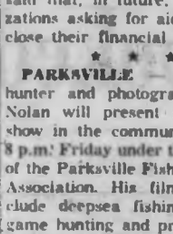

SOME FOR HOMES

The 80-acre tract between the town and Davis Road, bought by Ladysmith in 1963 for $22,000, will eventually be developed into a recreational park with some land to be used for private homes.

Council was advised by the provincial highways department that the town request for a crosswalk at Davis and the highway has been referred to the senior traffic engineer in Nanaimo for further consideration.

Another decision was to open the town hall Saturday, Feb. 27, for people buying 1965 car licence plates.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Johnson Wins Support Of Both Parties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem.—Ark.), chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and "a dominant majority" of Senate Republicans have supported President Johnson's course.

TOKYO (UPI)—China warned the United States today that the Johnson administration will not be able to control "the time, place and scale of the war" in South Viet Nam if it expands the war. "We mean what we say," the Peking regime warned.

The Soviet Union, however, took a much more conciliatory line, saying early today that it was in favor of "the establishment of normal relations" with the United States.

The Soviet statement, contained in an editorial in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, came hours after U.S. ambassador Foy D. Kohler complained that there was inadequate protection of the U.S. Embassy by Russian police during student demonstrations.

The Soviet leaders are in favor of the "establishment of normal relations with the U.S. and their improvement," Pravda said.

The Peking statement, an editorial in the official Peking People's Daily newspaper, was monitored in a broadcast which said:

"How far the Johnson administration will go on the road of expanding the war in Indo-China is a question which the administration can decide for itself.

"But once U.S. imperialism embarks on this road of adventure, it would be impossible for it, as a belligerent, to control and decide at will the time, place and scale of the war."

China, which Tuesday warned that its armed forces were waiting in "battle array" to counter any United States invasion of North Viet Nam, said today Peking and the "whole socialist camp" would consider an invasion of North Viet Nam as an invasion on China itself.

"If U.S. imperialism is bent on spreading the war flames and imposing war on us, then we shall have no alternative but to go along with it to the very end."

The Chinese warned that the "whole of Asia would be aflame with the revolutionary fire in which you (the United States) will be so burnt to death that not even your ashes would be traceable."

If Phony Letter Probed

Author Likely Witness

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday if the Dorion inquiry decides to investigate the phony Premier Bennett letter in connection with the Stonehill immigration case he expects the true author to be called to testify.

The attorney-general disclosed that he received a letter from Prime Minister Pearson in which there appeared to be "no reservations" about terms of reference of the Dorion inquiry being wide enough to encompass the phony letter.

NO INDICATION

In the letter Mr. Pearson was "both cordial and correct," said Mr. Bonner, but it gave no indication that the prime minister had communicated with the commission.

Mr. Bonner said he didn't know what prompted lawyers at Tuesday's hearings in Ottawa to request the Dorion commission to call witnesses in connection with the case of millionaire promoter Harry Stonehill, who was refused landed immigrant status in Canada.

OTHER WITNESSES

The possible witnesses named in Ottawa news reports were Hal Dornan, policy assistant to the prime minister, Vancouver publicist Al Williamson, former immigration aide Raymond Denis and Mr. Stonehill.

Mr. Bonner last week announced a letter sent to Mr. Dornan over a signature purporting to be the premier's was completely phony and added that RCMP had learned the identity of the true author in Vancouver. He did not identify the author.

Mr. Pearson has given no indication of what further action the federal government plans, said Mr. Bonner.

"I imagine, however, that if the Dorion commission gets into this it will seek to hear the author of the letter," he said.

Mr. Bonner said he considered the latest developments meant in effect that the phony letter was already being considered by the Dorion inquiry.

Premier Bennett also disclosed yesterday that he received a telegram from the prime minister in reply to his phone calls last week. He refused to divulge what the contents of the wire were.

Stonehill Next Topic?

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a second aide to Prime Minister Pearson being called before the Dorion inquiry was raised Tuesday, 20th day of the commission's hearings.

Yves Fortier, counsel for Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, proposed Hal Dornan, Mr. Pearson's speech - writer, and other principals in the Harry Stonehill immigration case be summoned as witnesses.

The request, on which Chief Justice Frederic Dorion reserved decision, came soon after Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, former parliamentary secretary to Mr. Pearson, completed his testimony.

Though Mr. Pearson has said Mr. Rouleau resigned Nov. 24 as his parliamentary secretary, Mr. Rouleau insisted twice

Battles Rage At U.S. Base

SAIGON (AP)—Major engagements were reported at two points near the strategic air base at Da Nang in South Viet Nam Tuesday, after a battle 50 miles east of Saigon cost the life of one American.

Twelve others were wounded.

Among those wounded Tuesday was the son of the deputy commander of the U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

As South Vietnamese troops and the Communist Viet Cong clashed near Da Nang, troops at the base began throwing up sandbags around a newly installed battery of U.S. Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

FEAR ONSLAUGHT

Authorities feared a Viet Cong onslaught on Da Nang, cornerstone of U.S. air operations against Communist strongholds in Laos and North Viet Nam. The base is 80 miles south of the North Vietnamese border and 380 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese government troops made a helicopter attack on one Viet Cong force near the base and caught another group of about 200 out in the open. No detailed results were available.

'STRIKE HARD'

Communist guerrillas pressed the attack throughout the country in a bloody counter-thrust to U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam. A Hanoi broadcast heard in Tokyo urged the Viet Cong to "strike hard, very hard at the enemy on all battlefields."

'It May Take Bulldozer, But B.C. Will Get Bank'

TORONTO (CP)—B.C. Highways Minister Philip Gaglardi said Tuesday after speaking to the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, that the province has not given up plans for its own bank.

"We never abandon any good plan. If they stop us one way, we'll get it by another."

"Some of those moss-backed senators up there don't know anything. But don't you worry. We'll get it if we have to take a bulldozer to get it going."

Nanaimo Sewer Job

Cave-In Kills Worker

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — A 30-year-old Nanaimo district man died Tuesday afternoon not far from his home when a 15-foot section of a seven-foot-deep sewer trench caved in.

Leroy Morgan of Departure Bay Road, the father of two children, was injured fatally when buried for several minutes while working between Highland Boulevard and Marlborough Crescent in the upper Departure Bay area.

He was helping pipelayer Frank Bohati, 615 Sterling, when foreman Pat Fagan noticed the walls were giving way and yelled a warning.

Mr. Bohati jumped clear, but Mr. Morgan, co-workers said, went the wrong way.

The others soon uncovered Mr. Morgan's head.

An Island Ambulance arrived within minutes, and Dr. John Dixon and an ambulance attendant administered oxygen from a first-aid kit the Ledingham Construction Co. had on hand. They also tried mouth - to - mouth resuscitation before taking Mr. Morgan to Nanaimo hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The company has about half a dozen crews working in the area under a $445,000 sewerage project bylaw approved by voters last spring.

Coroner Russell Inkster said an inquest will open Thursday.

Chief Leads

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Incumbent David J. McDonald edged into the lead Tuesday night in unofficial returns from the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers' crucial presidential election.
